Chief Wood Talks To Y's Men's Club on Police Problems

Automobile Has Revolutionized Police Work Which Now Requires Greater Vigilance—Various Forms of Auto Problems Discussed—Simple Rules Suggested to Motorists.

The Kingston Y's Men's Club held an extremely interesting meeting Tuesday evening at the "Y" which was enjoyed by an attendance of 79.9 per cent. Captains Rowland, Dumm, Wolfersteig, Quimby, Gifford, and Winnie reporting their teams as being one hundred per cent present which was greeted with prolonged applause. They stated that their teams had pledged themselves to continue the good work as they were all anxious to be the winner in their attendance competition with the Kiwanis and Rotary clubs.

The club enjoyed having Kiwanian Samuel J. Messenger as their guest, being introduced by President Fred VanDeusen. Mr. Messenger in responding highly complimented the club and also expressed his enjoyment of their singing under the leadership of Tom Rowland with Dan Bittner at the piano. He was given a true Y's Men's reception.

Dr. Julian I. Gifford in a stirring address paid tribute to the honor the New York state convention of the Y's Men's Club had conferred upon their president, Fred VanDeusen, in electing him last Saturday to a very important state position in which he would have charge of all the clubs in the entire eastern district and pledged to Lieutenant Governor VanDeusen the hearty support and cooperation of the Kingston club.

Lieutenant Governor VanDeusen in responding said he did not consider the honor a personal one but a significant recognition of their forging from the bottom to one of the liveliest and shortest space of three years and assured the members that with the continuation of their loyal cooperation that the Kingston club would take even a more dominant position in state affairs for the map had now been placed on the map in a most striking manner.

The dinner was thoroughly enjoyed as prepared by the Misses Davenport and the Misses Emma Porter, Viola Porter, Doris Wilmont and Alma Quimby greatly helped to make the meeting so successful by serving in a very efficient manner.

The entertainment committee for next week will be Earl McLean, Lester Finley and Robert Brown.

Chief Wood's Address
The evening's entertainment committee consisting of Arthur Quimby, Walter Workman and John Romulus then took charge of the meeting and Arthur Quimby acting as chairman in his usual efficient manner introduced the speaker of the evening, Chief of Police J. Allen Wood, who delivered the following interesting and instructive address:

I can assure you gentlemen that it is a distinct honor and pleasure to come before your organization and present to you some facts relative to our police force which might be of interest to you and highly instructive.

You probably know your city's force better than you do any other body of public servants. You know that the manner in which it performs its various duties usually reflects the kind of government the public is receiving. To the public the police force is the barometer by which all other public service is gauged. If a policeman is courteous, shows a desire to render the kind of service that is expected of him, the public assumes that all other branches of the city government are efficient and functioning well.

Persons might reside in Kingston for a long time and seldom have to do with the water department, board of public works, or other departments, but he is constantly observing the policeman. Therefore the policeman by reason of this intimate contact stands closer to the people in the enjoyment of liberty, their use of property and the pursuit of happiness than any other public servant.

Within the last decade police work has been revolutionized. The automobile has opened up every city and village in the country. Formerly the police noted the last few trains that came in in the evening and if no suspicious persons arrived it was safe to lock up the town and look after its safety with the thought that very little or no crime would be committed. Today with the changed method of transportation and communication no city is immune or exempt from a visit of the lawless element who can use these modern means of transportation and communication and within a few hours pass through several municipalities and stop as he pleases and commit depredations.

This changed condition has caused police departments to adopt measures to combat the lawless element by the use of modern facilities, greater man power and police training.

Prevention Most Important.
It is one thousand times more important that policemen prevent crime than that they detect it because by preventing crime you save the citizen the loss sustained by injury by destruction of property and loss of property.

State Owns No Barge Terminal Site in City

State Never Took Advantage of Terminal Site Offered it During Canal-Barge Administration by Ulster & Delaware Railroad.

The Webb bill which was signed Tuesday by Governor Roosevelt, which would give authority to the city of Kingston if it so desired to purchase the barge canal terminal site now owned by the state, does not affect Kingston, for a glance at the records in the city assessor's office shows that the state owns no land in Kingston for barge canal terminal purposes.

Some few years ago, during the Canfield administration, an agreement was made with the Ulster & Delaware Railroad for a terminal site at Kingston Point. The state had an option to take the site provided within a two-year period. This was never done and the Ulster & Delaware Railroad still owns the land it was proposed using for a barge canal terminal here. This property was located inside the trestle at Kingston Point and had been offered to the state for a nominal sum.

The facts given above were furnished Senator Webb at the time when he introduced the bill, by Mayor Dempsey.

Roosevelt Vetoes $56,000,000 Items

Forced To Take Drastic Action Because Future of Executive Budget Is at Stake, He Says—Items Were in Revised Budget Submitted by Legislature.

Albany, N. Y., March 13 (AP).—Governor Roosevelt today vetoed items in the revised executive budget calling for appropriations of $56,000,000. The bill submitted by the Legislature for his signature called for total appropriations of $249,000,000.

The governor disapproved of part three of the bill providing for construction work and entailing appropriations of $18,000,000. His disapproval was given to the entire department of labor item of $2,700,000; to the group for the attorney general's office for $852,000 and to the division of standards for $135,000.

These items were included in the $36,000,000 segregated sum for department personnel.

"I wish to reiterate," the governor said in his notation to the Legislature, "that the proposal of the Legislature requiring approval of two members of the Legislature in addition to approval by the governor before monies previously appropriated can be expended, in accordance with schedules submitted by various department heads, is contrary to the spirit and letter of the constitution of this state."

"I am forced to take drastic action because the future of the executive budget is at stake. Either the state must carry out the principles of the executive budget, which embody fifteen years of effort to place the affairs of the state on a modern efficient business basis, or we shall drift into a hopeless situation of divided responsibility for administration of executive functions."

"It is wholly contrary to the whole plan of the American form of representative constitutional government to give two-thirds of the purely executive duty to the Legislature. The executive budget was not approved by the people of this state with any such thought in mind. I will not assent to a precedent depriving the present governor or future governors of a large part of the constitutional duties which are inherent in the office of chief executive."

H. H. Flemming Is Mentioned

A Washington dispatch to the New York World of today states that New York lawyers are eager for the new federal judgeships created by the last congress. Among those mentioned for the judgeship vacancies in the Southern district are Harry H. Flemming of Kingston; Henry Hershberg of Newburgh; and George Overacker of Poughkeepsie.

Lindbergh Expected To Leave Mexico Soon

Mexico City, March 13 (AP).—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh was believed today to be awaiting the arrival of a plane en route here from the United States to make his departure from this city.

An effort to gain something more as to his plans drew from him only the comment "I have nothing to say." He usually well informed circles, however, it was said he would return to the United States shortly after the arrival of the plane, which, dispatches said, reached Brownsville, Texas, yesterday.

Officers Elected By Downtown Business Men

Location of New Bus Terminal Downtown Also Discussed at Meeting of Business Men's Association Which Enters Another Year of Activity Energetically.

After a very lively meeting of the Downtown Business Men's Association, Tuesday night, at which officers were elected for the ensuing year, a most enjoyable social time was held at the meeting rooms, 22 Ferry street. The merchants did real justice to the "cats" and smokes after the business session, which was crowded with action concerning the spring season, the establishing of a new bus terminal and the election of officers.

Harry Kaplan was re-elected president. He went back into office unopposed. His record as last year's president of the organization showed that he was a real wire in every way. The association under his leadership accomplished a great deal and now has a very substantial amount in the First National Bank, looked after by Conrad J. Heiselman, an employee of the First National, who has acted as treasurer of the Downtown Business Men's Association since its organization. He was unanimously re-elected. Both Mr. Kaplan and Mr. Heiselman were highly complimented for their efficient work.

Jack Greenwald, one of the most enthusiastic members of the Downtown Business Men's Association, had no opposition when nominated for vice president. His fellow members immediately placed him in the office of secretary, a position of honor. He was unanimously placed in the office of secretary, which the members feel sure he will conduct in a most efficient manner.

Four directors were elected as follows: Nicholas Stock, Jr., Jack Gramer, Herbert T. VanDeusen and Dwight McEntee.

New Bus Terminal

A matter that was widely discussed at the Tuesday meeting was the establishing of a new and much needed bus terminal downtown. A committee appointed to work on the matter at a previous meeting reported that the store adjoining the post office in the Max Leventhal building on West Strand was available. This was considered the logical place for a terminal by the merchants.

According to the plans of the Downtown Business Men's Association, which is to maintain the terminal, every convenience will be afforded bus passengers at the new waiting room. It will open at 6 a. m. and close at 12:40 p. m. every day including Sunday. Negotiations will be made concerning the installing of a telephone booth in the place. Suitable furniture will be placed there. Reading matter for bus passengers will be furnished. Proprietors of the several bus lines that will use the terminal, will be asked to see that busses adhere strictly to schedules.

Post Office Discussed

The business men also discussed matters concerning the downtown post office. They believed that the appearance of the place could be improved by the hanging of a more up-to-date sign, denoting that place is a post office. It was also mentioned that the large window in the post office would present a more business-like appearance if it was often. The service at the post office also came in for its share of criticism, and it was believed that this could be improved if the clerks would pay more prompt attention to those who wish to transact business through the various windows.

An invitation was received from President Frank Campbell of the Kingston Building Trades Employers Association, inviting the Downtown Business Men's Association to have a representative at the meeting in the municipal building on East O'Reilly street. It was stated in the invitation that a matter of grave importance to the future welfare of the city would be taken up.

A little talk on spring season window shows and advertising was given by President Kaplan, who complimented Jack Gramer, proprietor of the shoe store at 5 East Strand, for the attractive way he improved his store and show window.

This concluded the business session and the business men then partook of abundant refreshments furnished by the association. There was not a member at the meeting and social who did not enjoy the evening's proceedings and it was forecast that the Downtown Business Men's Association would grow rapidly under the leadership of President Harry Kaplan.

NO LIBERALIZATION OF SUNDAY BLUE LAWS

Harrisburg, Pa., March 13 (AP).—The committee on law and order of the House of Representatives crushed without compromise all the bills considered which would have liberalized Pennsylvania's Sunday blue laws at its first meeting of the session today.

The committee also killed the Reilly bill to repeal the state's prohibition enforcement law.

Another bill unfavorably acted upon would have permitted horse racing with pari-mutuel betting in Pennsylvania.

Only British Subjects May Buy.
London, March 13 (AP).—Decision of the directors of the British General Electric Company, restricting the issue of new shares to British subjects was approved by a large majority of shareholders today.

Dry Enforcement In State Limited To 6% Beverages

Assembly Committee Amends Jenks Bills Which Would Have Made Beverages Above 1 1/2 Per Cent Alcohol Illegal—Committee Action Criticized and Defended.

Albany, March 13 (AP).—The Legislature of New York state today was facing the possibility of soon seeing anti-prohibition Democrats lining up to support a series of bills to "enforce" the Volstead act.

The bills intended to provide for the enforcement of the federal prohibition act were reported favorably by the codes committee last night, but they were so amended that Assemblyman Edmund B. Jenks, Republican, of Broome, framer of the original measures, expressed regret that his name was attached to them in their present form.

The bills, as reported, would provide enforcement by state officers in case of all beverages containing more than 6 per cent alcohol, instead of one and one-half per cent as stipulated in the Volstead act and in the original Jenks bills.

They emerged from the committee room after a day of bewildering action which saw the committee first approve them, then withdraw, amend, kill, reconsider, amend again and finally report them out favorably.

The committee's action was termed by the father of the original bills to be "adding insult to injury." He severely criticized Assemblyman William H. Sargent, of Syracuse, Republican, who was credited with having the bills withdrawn after they had been reported out and then having them amended as they now stand.

Sargent Defends His Course

However, Assemblyman Sargent, who always has voted for the enforcement act when the question has been acted on by the Assembly, defended his course and the action of the committee in a statement he issued after the meeting.

He declared that the committee's move was the only one which would give an enforcement bill the slightest chance of getting through both houses of the Legislature during the present session. An out and out enforcement act never would pass the Senate, he said, pointing out that of the 27 Republican senators, three were known to be of anti-prohibition views.

While Governor Roosevelt has announced he would veto a prohibition enforcement bill if it were sent to him, it was not known what his attitude would be on an enforcement measure of the "six per cent" variety.

Should the legislature pass the present bills, and should Governor Roosevelt sign them, the state would have its first law of this kind since the Mullan-Gage act was repealed in 1923.

But there are several kinds of legislative procedure which the present bills would have to hurdle before the assembly could send them to the senate. One of these hurdles, considered a high one by some on Capitol Hill, would be a motion to strike out the amendments when the bills come up on the calendar next week, thus forcing a record vote on the original bill.

Joke, Says Nicholson

"Just a joke," was the way S. E. Nicholson, associate superintendent of the State Anti-Saloon League, characterized the amended measures.

Said Assemblyman Sargent in his statement after the committee meeting: "It is not to be thought this bill would legalize those beverages having less than six per cent of alcoholic content. The bill leaves the enforcement of that to the federal authorities and merely provides that so far as New York state is concerned her courts, district attorneys and peace officers shall spend their energies in trying to enforce the law against the extreme violations and not against those dealing with beverages containing an extremely small percentage of alcohol. This bill represents a compromise and it is believed that it should be more acceptable to the dry forces of the state than no enforcement act at all."

Friday Last Day For Income Tax

Friday is the last day for filing federal income tax returns, which must be in the hands of the collectors or in the mails before midnight that day. Willful failure to make a return on time involves a penalty of 25 per cent of the amount of the tax, and may involve a $10,000 fine or a year's imprisonment as well.

Every citizen of the United States, whether residing at home or abroad, and every person residing in the United States, whether a citizen or not, whose gross income for the taxable period amounted to $3,900, or whose net income amounted to $1,500 if single or $2,500 if married, must file a return.

State income tax returns must be filed on or before midnight, April 15. All persons required to file a federal income tax return must also file a state return, provided they live in the state or have taxable income from business done in New York or salaries earned in New York.

Asks $100,000 for Death of Husband In Auto Mishap

Mrs. Harry Connor Alleges Her Husband Lost His Life Due to Negligence of Jane Thompson, Who Was Driving the Car.

On June 24, 1928, Harry Connor, of New York city, a passenger in a Studebaker car owned by Ralph M. Thompson of Pine Hill and New York city, was killed in an accident at Winchell's store at Shokan. Mrs. Connor as executrix of the estate of her husband is seeking to recover damages for the death of her husband and asks that she be awarded $100,000 as such damages. The case went to trial in Supreme court this morning.

According to the testimony and allegations of plaintiff, Florence S. Connor, her husband was employed as a freight agent for a large steamboat company in Brooklyn and at the time of his death was earning a salary of $15,000 a year with prospects of advancement. The action is brought to recover damages for Mrs. Connor and her two dependent daughters.

According to the facts as brought out by Mr. and Mrs. Connor had been invited to spend a week with Mr. and Mrs. Thompson at their country place at Pine Hill. It was on their way to Kingston to return to New York city on Sunday afternoon that the accident happened which resulted in the death of Mr. Connor. At the time Jane Thompson, daughter of defendant, was driving the car. In the car were the driver and a girl friend, E. Aline Mackay, and Mrs. Connor, who were seated in the front seat. Mr. Connor being seated on the right of the seat. In the rear seat were Mr. and Mrs. Thompson and Mrs. Connor.

Action of the Car

The car had been driven to a point near the intersection of the Ashokan boulevard and the road running west over the main dam at Winchell's store. It is alleged the car was being driven some 30 or 35 miles an hour and when a short distance from the intersection the speed was increased by Jane Thompson. Traffic was moving at the point in various directions. The car suddenly swerved to the right and skidded toward the gasoline pumps at the store, missing a pole, tree, the pumps and another car which stood near. The car then is alleged to have swerved to the left of the road and struck a car and then swerved again to the right where it turned over, throwing Mr. Connor and some of the occupants out. The car after turning over righted itself and bounded again to its wheels and started back up the road toward Pine Hill, the direction from which it had been coming, and after running a distance struck a tree and came to rest. Mr. Connor was killed when he was thrown from the car and it is also claimed that the car after righting itself and turning to run back up the road, ran over Mr. Connor as he lay on the roadway.

Plaintiff claims that Mrs. Connor is deaf and unable to work and that one daughter is suffering from the effects of infantile paralysis and needs the support of her parents. A second daughter is at home and dependent on her mother. The third daughter is married and no longer dependent on her parents.

At the time of the accident Mr. Connor was riding as a guest in the car. It is the contention of plaintiff that the car had been operated in a reasonable manner up to the point of the accident but that, through some unknown cause the driver, who was a young girl but 18 or 19 at the time, became confused or lost control of the car and through negligence caused the injuries which caused the death of Mr. Connor.

Defendant Denies Negligence

The defendant claims that it was not due to any negligence on the part of the driver but that some other car which was coming in from the opposite direction caused her to swerve to the side of the road in an effort to avoid an accident and that the turning of this car in front of the Thompson machine was the cause of the accident. Defendant claims that Jane Thompson used every effort to avoid an accident and that though this effort may have been of no avail she did what any careful prudent person would have done under the same circumstances and therefore the plaintiff cannot recover damages.

John W. Eckert appears for K. L. Woolsey, Campbell, Hicks and Keating for plaintiff, and Mr. Carter with A. J. Cook appears for Earl S. Jones, attorney of record for the defendant.

The case will involve the testimony of many witnesses as at the time there was considerable traffic at the point as well as several persons at the corner store. Jurors not on the case were excused until 10 o'clock Thursday.

Taxi Drivers Discharged

Morris Goldman and Louis Simon, two local taxi drivers, were arrested at the Rhinebeck ferry on Tuesday by Special Officer John Zellmer who charged them with soliciting fares from their taxicabs. This morning in police court sentence was suspended.

Desert Dust Blows 1,500 Miles

Shaughal, March 13 (AP).—Flour-like dust from the Gobi Desert engulfed Shaughal today in the worst storm reported here in ten years. The powdery dust blown more than 1,500 miles, was borne on a storm which originated in Mongolia on March 11, the baton.

Mexico Awaits Biggest Battle of Revolution

Army of Rebels Massed at Torreon Numbering 20,000—Calles Leading Federal Forces—Sudden Change of Heart by Indian Band Is Blow to Revolutionary Movement in Northern Mexico.

At reports as to the size of the rebel contingent at Torreon are true, observers predict one of the greatest battles in the history of revolutions in this turbulent country. The army under Calles is reported to be one of the largest ever sent out by the government to quell rebellion.

Milk Dealers Want Milk Code Less Stringent

City's Requirements for Grade A Pasteurized More Stringent Than State—Committee to Meet With Milk Dealers—Other Matters Before Health Board.

Tuesday evening a committee from the local milk dealers waited on the board of health to ascertain if the board would not consider revising the city milk code in its provisions for Grade A pasteurized milk, as the requirements of the state health department. The committee of milk dealers met first with Dr. Harold Clarke, the food inspector of the board, who brought the matter to the board's attention and suggested that it would probably be better to refer the matter to a committee from the board which could meet with a committee of milk dealers and threaten the matter out.

Mayor E. J. Dempsey, who presided at the board of health meeting, appointed Dr. Fredric Holcomb, Dr. Fred Hubne, and Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey to act as such a committee together with Dr. E. H. Loughran, health officer, and Dr. Clarke. This is the original board committee who drafted the provisions.

To Discuss Matter Tuesday

Dr. Holcomb, who is chairman of the committee, arranged for a meeting of his committee next Tuesday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock and the milk dealers will be asked to have their committee meet with the board committee at that time.

The Objectionable Regulation

The regulation covering Grade A pasteurized in the city milk code provides that all milk of that grade must be from tuberculin tested cattle. The state regulation does not require that, and the milk dealers believe the city provision was an unnecessary hardship on them and desire that the state provision be substituted for the city provision in the code covering Grade A pasteurized.

Many Communicable Diseases

The report of Health Officer E. H. Loughran for the month of February showed that many communicable diseases had been reported here that month, including 16 cases of scarlet fever, 17 of measles and 22 cases of pneumonia.

The report of the health officer showing the number of communicable diseases reported during February of this year and for the same period last year follows:

	1929	1928
Scarlet Fever	16	4
Measles	17	9
Chicken Pox	18	1
Whooping Cough	5	6
Pneumonia	22	11
Mumps	9	26
Epidemic Spinal Meningitis	0	1

More Deaths Than Births

The death record also exceeded the birth record during February with 46 births and 61 deaths reported in Kingston. In February of last year there were 19 births and 54 deaths reported here.

Bills and Claims

The board audited bills and claims and then adjourned. Mayor Dempsey presided at the meeting with the following members of the board present: Dr. Fredrick Holcomb, Dr. Joseph Jacobson, Dr. Fred Hubne, Mrs. Thomas J. Hickey and Robert Moore in attendance.

MAY NOT APPOINT REGENT FOR KING

Bognor, England, March 13 (AP).—So much improvement has there been in the condition of King George that it is now believed no attempt will be made to seek the appointment of a regent to act during the remainder of his illness.

It is believed now the king will be well enough by the time Parliament must be dissolved personally to deal with all matters connected with the general election to be held in May, and the formation of the new cabinet.

German Freighter Breaks Her Back

Shanghai, March 13 (AP).—The German freighter Glessen, 4,055 tons, bound for Hong Kong, struck "the button" near the Saddle Islands early today and broke her back. She is believed a total loss. An unnamed person was standing by and rescued three passengers and most of the crew. The remainder took refuge on the button.

REV. MR. WITHEY ASKED TO RETURN TO TRINITY

The Rev. George L. Withey, pastor of Trinity M. E. Church, was extended a call to return to the pastorate of that church for another year at the meeting of the official board of the church held Tuesday evening. The Rev. Mr. Withey since assuming the pastorate of the church here has proven a very able man. He is a chaplain of Kingston Post of the American Legion.

Kingston May Be Designated For Zone School

At City Will Provide Necessary Bell Tower and Equipment It Will Be Designated An Zone Training School For Firemen—Fire Board to Consider Matter.

At the mid-winter meeting of the State Fire Chiefs' Association held at Albany in February the association endorsed the proposition submitted by the State Mayors' Conference at its mid-winter session that training schools for firemen be established in various parts of the state.

Kingston was not named in any one and Fire Chief Joseph L. Murphy took the matter up with Secretary William P. Capes of the Mayors' Conference, and on Tuesday received a reply from Secretary Capes stating that it was the unanimous opinion of both organizations that if Kingston would provide the necessary drill tower and equipment that the city will be designated a zone training school. The school will start shortly after May 1.

In order to meet the requirement for establishing a zone school here it will mean that some changes will have to be made. The present hose tower on the Central Fire Station can be converted into a drill tower with but a small outlay of money. It will also be necessary to expend some money to purchase equipment. It is expected that the matter will be taken up at the next meeting of the board of fire commissioners.

Various Legends Tell of the Origin of Music

Music, most authorities agree, had a vocal origin. Some believe man attempted to imitate the sounds of birds, others say his melody developed from humming calls or other vocal signals employed in primitive life. A Chinese legend goes so far as to declare that a miraculous bird provided the musical scale, while the Japanese say music was devised by the gods to lure the sun-goddess from a cave where she had retired. The Arabian legend has it that Modhar, a camel driver, fell from his seat and hurt his arm. In pain he called out "Ja, Joda!" His fine voice stirred up the camels so that they moved more quickly. So (who could not guess the result) from that time all camel-drivers sang.

It is interesting to note that the Greek word from which "music" is derived was used by that people to embrace all the arts over which the Nine Muses were held to preside. Hence, "Music" in those days included all those branches of education concerned with the development of the mind as opposed to the body. What moderns specifically call music, they referred to as "harmony."

Morning Glory Blossom Saved for Count's Eyes

A legend tells of the introduction of the morning glory into Japan, says the New York Times. A Japanese prince heard of a vine that blossomed only in the early morning, and notified the foreign nobleman who owned it he was coming to see it. When he arrived the vines no longer were trailing over the walls. The entire garden had been uprooted and there was no sign of the flower.

Being angered, he started to leave. Having been invited to tea, however, his sense of politeness compelled him to turn back. On entering the tea room he saw a single morning glory blossom in a vase in a raised alcove. Inquiring of the nobleman why the garden had been ruined, the prince received the reply, "I ruined the garden in order that you might really see the blossom. If it were in plenty, you could not really have observed it so well as you did this single last flower saved for your eyes alone."

Coleridge's Expensive Innocence

Material things bothered Coleridge little more than they do most other poets and it is said that as a result of his aerial abstraction he came to attend Jesus college, Cambridge, as innocence personified. One of his biographers relates how the young man was accosted by a polite interior decorator requesting to be permitted to fix up the new pupil's room. "How would you like them furnished?" the tradesman asked in his most solicitous manner. "Just as you please, sir," replied Coleridge, thinking the man was employed by the college. The decorator took the young man at his large word and did a thoroughly good job of it. Coleridge moved in and was well pleased with his quarters. A few days later he received a bill, the amount of it making him gasp, but seeing where the error was he did not complain.

Well-Dressed Irishmen Adopt Novel Pajamas

Belmont. The well-dressed young Irishman will sleep in very novel pajamas this year, according to orders received by Under shirt, collar and pajama manufacturers. Extra workers are necessary to meet the demand for fancy nightwear, and some firms report a 60 per cent increase in output. The day of the fancy shirt has gone, manufacturers say, as the busy patterns have given way to plain materials or neat stripes.

Mannish Designs for Sports Duds

Costumes for Out-of-Door Pastimes Gay in Fabric and Color.

Since winter sports dress has become definitely established as to its general style, writes a fashion correspondent in the New York Times, the variations in the new models are mostly those in the fabrics and colors. The sports suits of the best grades are made of wools that are light in weight but very warm, the most popular being the tweeds, jerseys, knashes and homespuns. All of these when offered in coats, suits and costumes for special sports activities are recommended by the couturier or sales person as of "feather weight."

Which particular type of goods is selected depends upon the sort of sport the wearer is going in for. Among the Parisian designers each has his own conception of the proper dress to wear for skating, tobogganing, skiing or ice hockey; or for the less strenuous pastime of hiking across the wintry countryside. The question is decided in a measure by the part of the country in which the sports dress is to be worn. For St. Moritz and other mountain places the most athletic sort of outfit is worn—usually jodphurs, which are half tight and bind the ankle closely, with which is worn a heavy knitted jersey or a jacket over a cardigan or flannel shirt. The trouser suit, whatever its design, is made of finer woven stuff than the suits of other styles, to avoid clumsiness. Jane Regny, whose collection of winter sports clothes is always awaited with interest by her French-American clientele, is using jersey, suede, even leather for her mannish suits, which are a test of the tailor's skill. In her search for novelty she has chosen the Norwegian costume for her motif, making the jodphurs of beige suede and a short though heavy jumper of knitted wool in a very modernistic pattern of diagonal stripes in beige, brown and white.

Gay Color Combinations.

With this combination is worn a cap shaped like the headgear of an aviator, heavy white mousquetaire gloves and flat-faced shoes with socks that roll into a heavy "cuff" about the ankles. The color scheme in this costume is that of any smart sports ensemble.

Another from the same house is made in orange and brown, with the colors delightfully balanced from head to foot. This suit, all of jersey, is unusually chic and slender. The trousers, of orange wool jersey, are finished at the bottom with knitted ankle bands of brown yarn, and the jumper is knitted in orange, brown, black and white in geometric pattern. A knitted scarf of orange is wound about the throat, with one end hanging down the back and another in front. The cap, of knitted orange wool, fits tightly. It has a tassel that falls gracefully to one side. A brown leather top coat cut three-quarters length has large patch pockets and is lined with orange wool material.

The jodphurs suits present more distinctive patterns and a greater variety of color than most other styles of dress for winter sports. The model is in itself an extreme costume for women, and the couturiers who specialize in it are going in heavily for original designs. The most barbaric patterns—eggs, Egyptian, Slav and ultra-modernistic—are used in the sweaters and jumper blouses.

Both Regny and Schiaparelli are offering these daring schemes, some of them in the most vivid color combinations. Schiaparelli does a spectacular suit with jodphurs of plain tan suede, and a sweater so short it barely passes the belt line. Knitted of heavy black yarn with a startling pattern in white.

In another conception from this house brown and beige are used for the entire suit, including jodphurs of plaid beige wool and a knitted sweater, also of beige, with a bold pattern in brown. The sweater resembles plaid beige. Conventional as to its outline, the designers manage to put into it a certain individuality.

National Colors Are Used.

An American tailor makes an amusing skiffing outfit in the national colors in an ensemble that suggests great comfort. The usual trousers, of white gabardine are tucked into heavy knitted socks of dark blue yarn, and a knitted jumper of dark blue covers the hips and is belted with a strap of bright red lacquered leather. A knitted scarf of blue finished with red tassels and a white aviator's cap topped with a red pom-pom complete the costume.

A picturesque outfit in green and orange is made with breeches that are laced like leggings from the ankle to the knee and a Russian blouse that flares over the hips and is cut longer than the usual model. This is buttoned down the middle front. A soft belt is worn which is drawn closely about the figure and tied loosely, with long ends left hanging at one side. Both breeches and blouse are made of green waterproof gabardine, with accessories in bright orange.

An ultra-smart and altogether original skilling suit of American design is done all in black and apple green. The trousers, of black gabardine, are ankle length but easy in fit. The short jacket, also black, is barely belt length, and has wide revers of green cloth. This order of colors is reversed in a green scarf which is wound about the throat, with long ends decorated with a black geometric pattern hanging down the back. A cap of green felt with a gay visor completes the costume.

A dashing suit for the skiing slopes is made with trousers of scarlet jersey and coat of leather in the same shade, with big patch pockets, collar and narrow strap belt stitched in white. With it comes a close-fitting knitted cap of white wool, which has an added protection with a band that folds close about the face and over the ears.

Although the range of colors is almost unlimited, some of the best designers are using a great deal of black. Madeleine Vionnet, who describes her favorite diagonals for tailored geometrics, makes a skilling suit of black rubberized gabardine, plain jodphurs and short, double-breasted box coat, with square patch pockets, collar and revers. The lively note in this costume is supplied in the knitted sweater in gray, red and white wool. Like Highlander's Kilt.

One other among the latest models, quite out of the ordinary, is made of hustruss green jersey with short skirt like a Highlander's kilt, laid in a cluster of flat plaits at one side, and a jacket cut finger-tip length with conventional collar and revers, patch pockets and cuffs. The sweater is knitted in a modernistic pattern in stripes of yellow, white and black. The advantage of these suits in which a compromise is made with skirt and jacket is that they answer quite as well for the toboggan, for skating or almost any of the snow and ice sports.

Yieb is having distinguished success this year with sports clothes that are particularly adapted to an American winter, using all-wool stuffs of lighter weight than the usual costume of this sort. Most of the models in a large and interesting collection are done in bold modernistic patterns in delightful color ensembles, and the greater number are made with skirt and blouse.

One of crepeella has a regulation kilt skirt in plain brown with a band at the bottom of blue and beige, which forms a succession of points along the edge. With this is worn a sweater blouse of brown on which an enormous geometric pattern is outlined in bands of beige and blue.

Jane Regny has a way of feminizing her sports clothes, which are for the most part so mannish this season. They are some the less serviceable for athletic activities and are most flattering. In some later models beige wool jersey is used for the skirt and a gay striped pattern for the sweater or long overblouse.

ALBERT HARVEY ENLISTS

IN UNITED STATES ARMY

Albert L. Harvey, 19, of 20 Ravine street, was enlisted in the United States Army for the Detached Enlisted Men's List, Service Detachment, United States Military Academy, West Point, N. Y., according to Sergeant Daniel J. McLinden, DEMI (RS), now in charge of the Army Recruiting Station located in the Central Postoffice.

Sergeant McLinden announces that in view of the fact that the Army is now practically up to its authorized strength, he has received instructions to discontinue original enlistments except for the following assignments: Infantry, Hazali; Infantry, Coast Artillery and Medical Dept., Panama; Infantry and Coast Artillery, Philippine Islands; Infantry, China; Infantry and Field Artillery for States west of the Mississippi bordering on the Gulf of Mexico, and for States along the Pacific coast.

Men with prior Army service have a wider scope of assignments to choose from.

The Army transport "Cambrai" sails from the Army Base, Brooklyn, N. Y., on April 2, 1929.

STONE RIDGE GRAZE MEETING NEXT MONDAY

The regular meeting of Stone Ridge Graze will be held on Monday, March 18, when very important business matters will be discussed. The lecturer's hour promises to be a very interesting one. During this time a debate will be held on the question, "Resolved, that a young man who chooses farming as an occupation is making a mistake." The affirmative is to be upheld by Harry Cornish and two colleagues; the negative by Edward Muller and two others. Frank Elston will discuss the Boulder Dam proposition. Emma Scarpatti will discuss the rural church problem. Games will be played.

WESTERN UNION HEAD DENIES RUMORED MERGER

New York, March 12 (AP).—Newcomb Carlton, president of the Western Union Telegraph Company, returned from England on the Olympic today. He went abroad recently to observe the results of the merger in England of radio and telegraph, but would not say whether he found it satisfactory.

Commenting upon the repeatedly denied rumor that a like merger was coming in America, Carlton said: "It is as remote as the moon from the earth. I can say for my company that nothing of this sort is even remotely apt to happen."

SIDNEY K. CLAPP WRITES FOR "AMERICAN FORESTS"

The March issue of "American Forests and Forest Life," the magazine of the American Forestry Association, contains a very interesting article entitled "The Watersheds of New York," from the pen of Sidney K. Clapp, assistant engineer and forester of the board of water supply of the city of New York, who is now making his residence in Kingston. The articles are well illustrated.

Better Training For Salesmen

Is Needed in Kingston Stores, Says Minneapolis Expert Who Addressed Rotary—Chain Store Invasion Not Yet Here, But Coming Some Day.

"Community Welfare From a Merchandising Standpoint" was the topic on which Thomas H. Martin, a business accelerator from Minneapolis was announced to address the Rotary Club at its weekly luncheon in the Governor Clinton this week. There was the customary assertion that without its merchants a community did not amount to much and, after that, Mr. Martin gave some plain and pointed advice and information.

One thing that he made plain was the need for better training of salespeople, so that they would know their stock, know something about the business and practice at least the elements of ordinary courtesy toward customers. The necessity for intelligent and adequate advertising in newspapers was another point insisted on, for which three per cent of receipts should be set aside. Too many things are now charged to advertising that should be charged to charity, if the expenditure is made at all.

Kingston, Mr. Martin said, is as yet little affected by chain store invasion, but the kind of chain store that will affect business will be here some day and then the independent merchants should not despair, but use renewed and augmented efforts to hold their share of the business. The coming of Sears, Roebuck & Company, the speaker did not regard as of any special significance or danger except perhaps in a few special lines, and in these the had effect would be only temporary.

Mr. Martin is here to conduct a clearing out sale for one of the leading Wall street business houses, announcement of which will appear in due time in The Freeman. While here he has quietly made a survey of business methods and conditions.

FIRE DEPARTMENT CALLED OUT BY FIVE GRASS FIRES

The fire department was kept busy on Tuesday responding to five calls for grass and brush fires. Tuesday afternoon there was a grass fire in the rear of the high school; another at South Wall street and the Boulevard and a third near the dump on Wilbur avenue. That evening the firemen were called out for a brush fire on DeWitt street, and also for a grass fire off the Boulevard, near the T. B. hospital property.

ABSENT-MINDED DRIVERS.

The chief cause of automobile accidents is inattention, according to Benjamin G. Eynon, the motor vehicle registrar of Pennsylvania, and this view is said to be widely held among highway authorities generally. Mr. Eynon discusses poor vision, among minor causes, and pointedly contrasts the care with which the vision of crews operating railroad trains is tested and the indifference shown to defective eyesight on the part of licensing authorities. He says the time must come when State laws will permit the licensing only of those drivers who have good vision, normal hearing, and are both physically and mentally alert. At present, it seems, applicants can secure licenses, no matter what their physical and mental defects may be, if only they show ability to operate a car. But all other reforms are declared by Mr. Eynon to be of secondary importance as compared with the need of inducing drivers to keep their minds on what they are about. He says, in substance, that speed in itself is not dangerous, modern roads have few hazards, and laws are of little use—motor vehicle accidents occur because drivers are not on the job.

This seems rather an extreme view, but no doubt there is much to support it. Mr. Eynon offers no remedy except the awakening of drivers to the danger of inattention and carelessness; this admittedly involving "education" over a long period. But meanwhile it might be if an appeal were made to those conscious of habitual absent-mindedness to give up their ambition to own and drive cars. Not a few persons have done this already because they recognized that their habitual lack of concentration or absent-mindedness would be a danger to the public as well as to themselves.

THE GERMAN MONARCHISTS.

As much American money is invested in German enterprises, and as the interests of this country are more vitally concerned in a satisfactory reparation settlement than is generally supposed, the continuing stability of the German government, although technically none of our business, is highly important from the American point of view. In his new volume, "My Ancestors," the former Kaiser critically observes: "Wilson was able to stir up and inflame the Germans with his world-environment of 'an idea, but then when the Germans were won over by this idea and when they had given away all means of self-defense, there was no more talk of this idea. It now seems indicated that the idea 'world enthroned' by President Wilson no longer 'inflames' the German mind, or has lost its power to fascinate and 'win over' for enough disturbance is reported in Germany and of a sort to give the former Kaiser some hope of a restoration of the monarchy."

A break-down of Republican government is said to be threatened. Stresemann is quoted as saying that he is compelled to fight both the genuine desire for a return of monarchy and the sore and sour discontent of those who would accept any pretext for rebellion. This, too, at the very moment when the Allied experts in Paris are trying to find the right way to adjust reparations and war debts. That there is, and has been all along, "a genuine desire for a restoration of the monarchy" can be doubted by no one acquainted with the German temperament or the instinctive leaning among the German masses toward strong and assured leadership. The effect in Germany of the "world enthronement of an idea" could at best, perhaps, be only temporary.

More discoveries in Ur of the Chaldees. American archaeologists unearth tablets written 2,400 years ago, which were nearly 2,000 years before the time when Abraham is supposed to have emigrated westward from the ancient east of civilization. If Abraham himself had found these old writings, he could not have read them. But our scholars can read them now. Reading must have been quite a chore for the schoolchildren of Chaldean 2,500 years before the Christian era. Writing was still a chore of a chore. One had to make queer, complicated marks on soft clay with a little wedge, and those marks looked much like chicken tracks. "Cursey" writing with a lead pencil on white paper is much simpler and easier. But those baked clay tablets lasted. How long will our writings endure? Not merely our manuscripts, but our newspapers, magazines and books? Do you suppose that of all these millions of tens of wood pulp made into reading matter there will be one sample left 2,400 years from now?

Calvin Coolidge ended his presidency with a jest that should not be lost on posterity. Nor on his contemporaries, either. On the last day of his term he signed the bill appropriating $48,000 for establishing a summer White House on a pleasant hilltop in Virginia, then immediately sent a telegram to the St. Louis Post-Dispatch, thanking it for its help, and adding: "The Congress has shown an inclination to treat a President with the same kind of consideration it extends to our birds and other wild life." Sure enough, the President deserves a sanctuary in the wilderness no less than other forms of wild life. It may even be more necessary to him than for the birds.

UNTIL I WAS MARRIED I NEVER HAD the chance to enjoy home life. Every sailor hopes to have a home some day, away from the sea, and fortunate indeed is the sailor who can go to a home of his own if only for the short time in port. Men in the merchant marine are better off in this respect than the men of the navy, who move constantly from port to port.

After 19 or 20 years at sea the desire to roam is on the wane; at least that is how I found it. Why I wanted to travel and seek adventure I do not know, for I certainly did not inherit the trait. My parents, both of whom were born in Sweden, came to this country shortly after the Civil War and settled in Illinois. A year or two later, I understand, they went to Worcester, to establish what turned out to be their permanent home. My father was employed in a steel wire mill and had never been to sea except the time when he made the voyage to this country with my mother.

I boarded the Hartford, voyaging to Europe in 1905, when my father died. It was not until after I reached the port of destination that I received word of his death by letter. Mother also died while I was away from home, in 1908. So my home was my ship from that time until I met my wife—a case of love at first sight. Oh, yes, I know the question you have in mind. I was a sailor, remember, and even the young lady whom I determined to make my wife did not take me seriously at first. She laughingly told me she was willing to be my New York girl.

It was in May, 1919, when I met Miss Laura Parmenter at a dinner aboard the America. I was navigator of the ship, and she was a beautiful young woman, vivacious and full of life. They say opposites attract. I watched her intently during the dinner and arranged later for a theatre party the following night, together with another of the ship's officers and a young lady. She was living in New York with an uncle, but was a native of Cincinnati, and met her aunt and uncle and lost no time in informing them that Miss Parmenter was the young lady that I wanted for my bride.

A sailor's courtship obviously is not satisfactory. Almost a month elapsed between calls at the home port. In Europe I went shopping for the first time in my life for gifts that would be appropriate for a lady.

Several months afterward I was laid up with an attack of pneumonia and it was then that I appreciated to the fullest extent my wife and my home, for the tender care and comfort I enjoyed. And I want to say that Mrs. Fried is an excellent cook. In fact we moved from the kitchenette apartment to another with a full-sized kitchen so she could enjoy the facilities of a real galley. I have yet to find a steward who can serve me an apple pie that can compare, even favorably, with my wife's baking. Our home, after seven years, is still a love nest. It is about time that I replaced that record, "Love Nest," for it is so scratchy that only Mrs. Fried and I can recognize the tune which we both love.

(Tomorrow: Hobbies of a Seaman)

I never knew the world was so large, but finally the America returned to port. We were to be in New York for five days before starting again for the Mediterranean. Those five days passed with magical swiftness, but gave me ample time to present an engagement ring to Miss Parmenter.

Before embarking on the sea of matrimony, however, several years passed in which I had time to save money. This was a new adventure and I did not want to run into any squalls. We decided definitely to embark, however, when I was transferred to the President Roosevelt and was given command of this beautiful new liner. So on March 21, 1922, we were married in Greenwich, Conn. That was a Tuesday. Sunday we went house-hunting. Monday we decided on an apartment, after discussing the selection an hour on a bench in Central Park. We wondered if we were not tackling too big a job because of what appeared to us to be a very high rent. I knew nothing about rents nor locations. We took a two room apartment with a kitchenette in West Eighty-fourth street, New York.

It was a great day for me when we selected our furniture. This was another new adventure. There were so many things I wanted that I was prepared to buy twice as much as was actually necessary. Before I sailed again a Victrola was sent to us as a gift on which I almost wore out one of the records, "Love Nest," before I put to sea again, alone.

I regret that the law of the sea does not permit a member of a ship's complement to have his wife go along, but it is probably best after all because a ship cannot have two captains. So my starboard anchor remained at home. Nevertheless, I do not hesitate to recommend marriage to a seafaring man if he gets the right girl.

Before I sailed again a Victrola was sent to us as a gift on which I almost wore out one of the records, "Love Nest," before I put to sea again, alone.

I regret that the law of the sea does not permit a member of a ship's complement to have his wife go along, but it is probably best after all because a ship cannot have two captains. So my starboard anchor remained at home. Nevertheless, I do not hesitate to recommend marriage to a seafaring man if he gets the right girl.

Several months afterward I was laid up with an attack of pneumonia and it was then that I appreciated to the fullest extent my wife and my home, for the tender care and comfort I enjoyed. And I want to say that Mrs. Fried is an excellent cook. In fact we moved from the kitchenette apartment to another with a full-sized kitchen so she could enjoy the facilities of a real galley. I have yet to find a steward who can serve me an apple pie that can compare, even favorably, with my wife's baking. Our home, after seven years, is still a love nest. It is about time that I replaced that record, "Love Nest," for it is so scratchy that only Mrs. Fried and I can recognize the tune which we both love.

(Tomorrow: Hobbies of a Seaman)

I never knew the world was so large, but finally the America returned to port. We were to be in New York for five days before starting again for the Mediterranean. Those five days passed with magical swiftness, but gave me ample time to present an engagement ring to Miss Parmenter.

Before embarking on the sea of matrimony, however, several years passed in which I had time to save money. This was a new adventure and I did not want to run into any squalls. We decided definitely to embark, however, when I was transferred to the President Roosevelt and was given command of this beautiful new liner. So on March 21, 1922, we were married in Greenwich, Conn. That was a Tuesday. Sunday we went house-hunting. Monday we decided on an apartment, after discussing the selection an hour on a bench in Central Park. We wondered if we were not tackling too big a job because of what appeared to us to be a very high rent. I knew nothing about rents nor locations. We took a two room apartment with a kitchenette in West Eighty-fourth street, New York.

It was a great day for me when we selected our furniture. This was another new adventure. There were so many things I wanted that I was prepared to buy twice as much as was actually necessary. Before I sailed again a Victrola was sent to us as a gift on which I almost wore out one of the records, "Love Nest," before I put to sea again, alone.

"My Thirty Years at Sea"

By CAPTAIN GEORGE FRIED

It was love at first sight when Fried met the girl who became his wife—at a dinner aboard the America. They were opposites in type. His courtship, as romantic as his life; the long period of homesickness and loneliness before marriage; home hunting and furnishing, these were all new adventures to Fried, and he says he proceeded slowly as he did not want to "run into any squalls."

CHAPTER XV

Until I was married I never had the chance to enjoy home life. Every sailor hopes to have a home some day, away from the sea, and fortunate indeed is the sailor who can go to a home of his own if only for the short time in port. Men in the merchant marine are better off in this respect than the men of the navy, who move constantly from port to port.

After 19 or 20 years at sea the desire to roam is on the wane; at least that is how I found it. Why I wanted to travel and seek adventure I do not know, for I certainly did not inherit the trait. My parents, both of whom were born in Sweden, came to this country shortly after the Civil War and settled in Illinois. A year or two later, I understand, they went to Worcester, to establish what turned out to be their permanent home. My father Presenting them was a new thrill. But it didn't last long. After only two calls at New York the discouraging word was received that the America was to start on a trip lasting six months. It was a sad day when we sailed and many other sad days followed. Fortunately, this was an interesting voyage and tended to relieve loneliness, a malady that ranks along with homesickness and seasickness. I know of no cure for any of them.

I never knew the world was so large, but finally the America returned to port. We were to be in New York for five days before starting again for the Mediterranean. Those five days passed with magical swiftness, but gave me ample time to present an engagement ring to Miss Parmenter.

Before embarking on the sea of matrimony, however, several years passed in which I had time to save money. This was a new adventure and I did not want to run into any squalls. We decided definitely to embark, however, when I was transferred to the President Roosevelt and was given command of this beautiful new liner. So on March 21, 1922, we were married in Greenwich, Conn. That was a Tuesday. Sunday we went house-hunting. Monday we decided on an apartment, after discussing the selection an hour on a bench in Central Park. We wondered if we were not tackling too big a job because of what appeared to us to be a very high rent. I knew nothing about rents nor locations. We took a two room apartment with Love at sight. We discussed our home from a park bench.

I was employed in a steel wire mill and had never been to sea except the time when he made the voyage to this country with my mother.

I boarded the Hartford, voyaging to Europe in 1905, when my father died. It was not until after I reached the port of destination that I received word of his death by letter. Mother also died while I was away from home, in 1908. So my home was my ship from that time until I met my wife—a case of love at first sight. Oh, yes, I know the question you have in mind. I was a sailor, remember, and even the young lady whom I determined to make my wife did not take me seriously at first. She laughingly told me she was willing to be my New York girl.

It was in May, 1919, when I met Miss Laura Parmenter at a dinner aboard the America. I was navigator of the ship, and she was a beautiful young woman, vivacious and full of life. They say opposites attract. I watched her intently during the dinner and arranged later for a theatre party the following night, together with another of the ship's officers and a young lady. She was living in New York with an uncle, but was a native of Cincinnati, and met her aunt and uncle and lost no time in informing them that Miss Parmenter was the young lady that I wanted for my bride.

A sailor's courtship obviously is not satisfactory. Almost a month elapsed between calls at the home port. In Europe I went shopping for the first time in my life for gifts that would be appropriate for a lady.

Several months afterward I was laid up with an attack of pneumonia and it was then that I appreciated to the fullest extent my wife and my home, for the tender care and comfort I enjoyed. And I want to say that Mrs. Fried is an excellent cook. In fact we moved from the kitchenette apartment to another with a full-sized kitchen so she could enjoy the facilities of a real galley. I have yet to find a steward who can serve me an apple pie that can compare, even favorably, with my wife's baking. Our home, after seven years, is still a love nest. RADIO ASSURES SAFETY IN AIR

Engineer of Bureau of Standards Outlines Needs of Aviation Service.

New York.—The future development of commercial air travel is virtually dependent upon the use of radio, in the opinion of Dr. J. H. Dellinger, chief of the radio section of the United States bureau of standards, who addressed the winter convention of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers recently. Doctor Dellinger said the percentage of aviation accidents resulting from hazards of weather was due to the slowness with which radio aids to air navigation have been advancing.

"Radio seems the answer to those standards," Doctor Dellinger concluded, "and there is ground for hope that not only this percentage of accidents, but the whole number of accidents will become vanishingly small when the present possibilities of radio are realized in practice."

Destroying Fog Menace.

Doctor Dellinger pointed out that genuine service will not be available until the air traveler may count on schedules as regular as railway trains maintain. Independent of weather or other contingencies. All other limitations are in a fair way to be overcome, he said, yet air traffic comes to a standstill when low visibility prevents the pilot from seeing landmarks or lights on the ground. A pilot may continue to fly in a fog, Doctor Dellinger said, by use of such instruments as the altimeter, turn indicator and compass, but it is only by means of radio that he can be certain of keeping to a given course and find the landing field when the ground is invisible.

The radio-beacon system which is being established on the airways of the United States is destroying the fog menace, Doctor Dellinger declared, and when this system is fully established, he pointed out, there is every reason to believe that the last great obstacle to safe flying will have been conquered, scheduled flights will be dependable, and passenger flying can be considered established as a serious service.

Doctor Dellinger described some of the means by which radio could be employed as an aid to air navigation for the flyer not traveling the regular airways. The first of these systems utilizes direction finding stations on the ground which determine the direction of radio waves transmitted by the airplane, combine their calculations and by triangulation determine the plane's position, which is then communicated to the pilot.

A second method is the use of a radio direction finder on the airplane. The pilot steers a course in the indicated direction of the radio station on the ground, and can be certain of reaching that point. The third method described by Doctor Dellinger employs the rotating radio beacon for the guidance of the independent flyer. A radio transmitting station, located preferably as an airport, sends forth a beam of radio waves which sweep constantly around. A special signal indicates when the beam sweeps through the north.

All Have Disadvantages.

A pilot listening for the beacon signal with his earphones determines his direction by the time elapsing between the north signal and the instant when the beam is heard with maximum intensity. The elapsed time is determined by means of a stop watch calibrated to read direction.

All of these methods have disadvantages which are not present in the operation of the radio beacon system employed for the United States airways, Doctor Dellinger said. All that is required on the plane now traveling a charted airway is a simple visual indicator on the instrument board, by reference to which the pilot can immediately tell whether or not he is on his course.

Eat Everything without Fear of Indigestion

Are there lots of foods you can't eat—fat, greasy, spicy, heating, rich, or too much of anything? Do you have to pass up favorite dishes—while the rest enjoy them? That's a sign you need Tanlac! For more than 10 years Tanlac has restored to vigorous health thousands who doubted themselves their favorite foods just as you have to.

As an example, Mr. Samuel Cooper, of 10 Hartford Landing Road, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "For five years my stomach caused me unbridled agony. Now I can eat anything and I get up feeling fine."

If you suffer from indigestion, gas, dizziness, headaches, constipation or torpid liver—give Tanlac a chance to help you! The first bottle often brings the needed relief.

Tanlac is a good, pure medicine, made of roots, herbs, and herbs that are recognized by the United States Pharmacopoeia. Get it from your druggist today. Your money back if it doesn't help you.

REALIZATION
Before I married Annabelle I was her pumkin pie. Her precious peach, her honey lamb, The apple of her eye.
But after years of wedded life, This thought I pause to utter: "I find I am none of these things—I'm just her bread and butter!"

Childless homes have squalls, too.
Teacher was giving a lesson on the Idiosyncrasies of March.
"What is it," she asked, "that comes in like a lion and goes out like a lamb?"
"Father," replied the smallest pupil.

According to our public monuments, all geniuses have one thing in common: I. e., baggy knees.

The man who has few enemies has few friends.

"She's rich now—her father struck oil."
"And she now does nothing but gush."

You can't judge a man by the company he invites, but by the company that comes.

A man becomes sophisticated when he is able to refrain from expressing his valuable opinions when someone starts talking about women.

"Do you want to go on a sleighing party?"
"Sure, who are you going to stay?"

Basil: "Do you know who that sweet little girl is that I've been dancing with all evening?"
Gwendoline: "Oh, yes, that's mother."

In business there abideth good goods, fair prices and honorable dealings—but the greatest of these is honorable dealings.

The man who turns the corner on two wheels eventually goes to the cemetery on four.

I crept upstairs, my shoes in hand, Just as the night took wing— And I saw my wife four steps above, Doing the same darn thing.

Dorothy: "But, surely, you didn't tell him straight out that you loved him?"
Jane: "Goodness, no! He simply had to squeeze it out of me."

"So you met Alice today?"
"Yes, I hadn't seen her for ten years."

"Has she kept her girlish figure?"
"Keep it! She's doubled it!"

Mother: "Yes, my daughter is studying the violin. She has a real old instrument."
Visitor: (sympathetically)—"Well, perhaps she can have a new one some day."

"PAINT UP TOWN," COLLEGE HEAD ADVISES PARENTS

Norton, Mass. (A).—Home and community would be better off says Dr. J. Edgar Park, president of Wheaton college, if parents went on night parties with daughters and "painted the town red" now and then. "If you do not have trouble with girls of high school age," Dr. Park suggests, "take them to a psychiatrist for examination."

There seems to be something wrong, the educator remarks, with girls who are 100 per cent perfect in all things.

In addition to the foregoing suggestions to aid parents to get along better with their daughters, Dr. Park says:

"As soon as you get 'het up' about your children you are lost. The relationship between parents and children should always be a battle of wits. Don't get peevish. Mothers must take their responsibilities in an intellectual way.

"Young people are going to the limit in tasting every drink once. But I think they are right in doing so. They are enjoying their youth and if you do not enjoy your youth you do not deserve to enjoy your old age. The young people of today are hard but clean. We are a slushy jelly of sentimentality compared to them.

Dr. Park says he would rather have young folks clean and hard than slushy and repressed. Girls take more chances today, he says and are better off in doing so. Parents, he suggests, must realize that this is a different world from the one they roamed about in.

"Feminine mortality survived the long skirt and will survive the short skirt," he asserts. "Love making is no longer a public scandal. It is a public art."

MODERN COW RUSTLERS OUTDO JESSE JAMES.

Helena, Mont. (A).—Efficiency and invention have put cattle rustling on a production basis.

Charles X. Dowlin, president of the Montana Livestock Association, says losses from stolen cattle are twice as great as when the range was open and rustlers depended upon the night and fast horses. The modern cattle thief butchers the animals where he finds them in the pasture and hauls the beef away in motor trucks. He has no trouble in disposing of his loot among street peddlers and established dealers.

Dowlin, also a state senator from Rosebud, recommends closer inspection of hides, heavier penalties for stock theft and a tax on stockmen to finance investigation and prosecution of rustlers.

'AGED PRISONER FREED AFTER 38 YEARS IN CELL

Softened by Prison Life He Returns to Germany to Waiting Wife.

Madison, Wis.—Resurrected from the living dead by a pardon which ended 38 years of confinement in the Waupun (Wis.) state prison, Joseph Fuchs, seventy-three, went back to Germany, the land of his birth, a land which, as a "lifer," he never expected to see again.

Out of a welter of three emotions that caused this man to murder in 1890, out of long, dulling monotony of 38 years spent in prison, has come a calm, a quietude of the soul that is like a religion to this kindly, white-haired "lifer."

"Prison life may harden some men, but 38 years of it did not seem to harden Fuchs. He emerged as kindly an old soul as one could find anywhere."

"I have learned my lesson," the old man smiled when he was brought before the governor to receive a "special" pardon certificate.

Is Happy Now.

"I'm an old man now," he said, "but I know that never again will there be trouble in my life. It was a long time, 38 years; but I am happy."

"Love Thy Neighbor," was the philosophy which the man adopted during his long years of imprisonment.

He Emerged as a Kindly Old Soul.

and he practiced his creed. He was a model prisoner, and for this reason, he said, prison life was not extremely hard for him because he always was treated kindly.

"There was so much time to think," he said, "so much time to think."

Not quite all of the story of Fuchs' life is known in this country, because he never would tell all. Even after he was released from prison, he continued to maintain silence concerning the crime for which he was convicted.

Wife Awaits Return.

In Germany, Fuchs' wife, faithful to him through all these years, awaits his return. Mrs. Fuchs still lives at the old Fuchs' homestead in Train, Germany—the homestead which Fuchs left to come to America.

When Fuchs came from the prison at Waupun to the capitol here he rode in a motor bus, the first he had ever seen. Here he heard a radio for the first time and marveled at this "miracle," which had come to pass during the years he was "buried alive."

Truly, it was like a resurrection—the emerging of this softened old man from prison. Everything had changed and to him everything was marvelous.

Despite all the changes which he saw in the rest of the world, the old man shyly whispered that in Train he hoped to find things as he left them so many years ago.

Kills Wife at Own Plea and Dies Beside Her

Boulder, Colo.—Yielding to his wife's pleas that he kill her, J. E. Kirkbride, forty-five, former district attorney of Boulder, fired a bullet through her head and then shot himself through the right temple.

Their bodies were found side by side in their bedroom. Six letters were found in which Kirkbride detailed his wife's fears that she was going insane, and her appeals to him to kill her.

Mrs. O. M. Gilbert, wife of a prominent physician, and Mrs. Mary Boyd, both sisters of Kirkbride, said Kirkbride and his wife often had discussed suicide. They little dreamed he actually would commit the deed, even though he considered it merciful, they said.

Mrs. Kirkbride had submitted to several examinations at the Denver Psychopathic hospital.

Herbert's Lighter Works, Freeman Vouch for It

Attica, Ind.—Herbert Hampel has a cigarette lighter that will light. This lighter was even powerful enough to call out the local fire department. Hampel was filling the lighter and he absent-mindedly pressed on the automatic ignition. It worked. The field he was using blazed up, the flames burning his hands. Blankets were used to smother the blaze and the fire department was called. Herbert was not burned seriously.

Can Prejudice Aids

Beware of prejudice; light is good in whatever lamp it is burning. A race is beautiful in whatever garden it may bloom. A star has the same radiance whether it shines from the east or from the west.—Abdul Bahe.

SMALL ARMIES RULE IN FUTURE CONFLICT.

Paris, March 16 (AP).—A French general, who hides his identity beneath three stars, writes in a well-known French review that wars of the future will be fought by small armies seeking a rapid decision. This, he declares, is the German conception, and France in counting upon complete mobilization of all forces with a view to a general engagement will be at a disadvantage. France and Germany, according to this critic, have been influenced by each other. The Germans, impressed by the rapidly organized resistance of the French in the last war, no longer plan their faith on a decision by huge masses of troops. The French, on the other hand, impressed by the thorough organization of the whole German army before striking a blow, believe in what amounts, according to the general, to almost national mobilization.

A highly trained, comparatively small fighting force, says the critic, will in the next war attack with lightning rapidity, leaving its own reserves by a gradually gathering reserve, and any nation that expects to have time to mobilize will find itself vanquished before it can set its effectiveness into the field.

Opportunity knocks more than once at everyone's door

No age limit on success if you keep fit

PEOPLE used to think that if you hadn't made your mark by the time you were 40, you were done. That's all bunk, people say today. There's many a man who'll tell you he was past 50 when he made his first big success. Their experience runs something like this:

"I'd been going through life, always just missing out on everything. Worked like a dog, too. But never seemed to get anywhere."

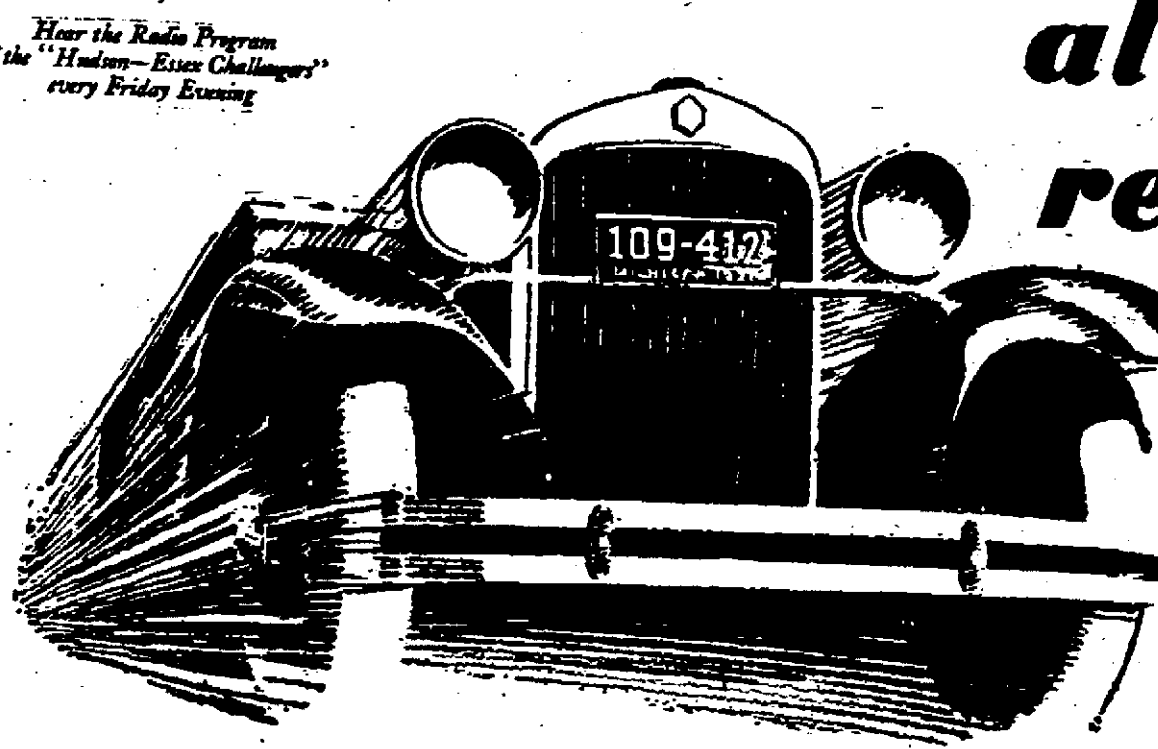

"It was a doctor who put me wise to myself. Told me not to blame it on luck. That the trouble was with me—right inside myself. He recommended Nujol. I took it for three months. Never missed a day. And, say, I began to feel like a younger brother myself. Decided there was life in the old dog yet. When my big chance came, I was all ready, waiting to grab it. And I did."

Nujol keeps your body functioning just as Nature meant it to, under all conditions. Contains no drugs or medicines. Just a pure substance that works normally and naturally. It not only keeps an excess of body poisons from forming (we all have them) but aids in their removal. These poisons slow you up mentally and physically, dull your whole outlook on life, make you half-hearted. Buy a bottle of Nujol today. Perfected by the Nujol Laboratories, 2 Park Ave., New York. In sealed packages only. Your druggist carries it.

ESSEX the CHALLENGER...sets all these records....

during Nation-wide CHALLENGER WEEK

Adverse weather conditions which made necessary use of chains did not prevent the Essex Coach used in the test from climbing the West Chestnut street hill in high gear. In test on the Hurley road for speed the Challenger gave 65 miles per hour with ease on the wet road and went into the curves at 50 miles per hour with no side sway in evidence. Due to the condition of the road the car was not opened up to its maximum capacity at any time.

Above we show some of the local records, officially observed by newspaper men, which Essex the Challenger established during Nationwide Challenger Week. Owners here, and owners by thousands all over the country, have duplicated these tests, or, at least, verified the capacity of their own Essex the Challenger to reproduce any or all of these proofs.

IN FAST GET-AWAY—no car is excepted. IN SPEED—anything the road offers up to 70 miles an hour. IN HILL CLIMBING—against any car you choose. IN APPEARANCE—match it for smartness with costlier cars. IN EASE OF DRIVING—note smoothness of motor—ease of steering—roadability and effectiveness of brakes. IN ENDUR-ANCE—60 miles an hour all day long is well within its range.

One million owners know the special advantages of the Super-Six. They are best qualified to compare the Essex the Challenger. To them we offer first opportunity to test the most powerful, the largest, roomiest, smoothest, easiest riding—most complete Essex ever built. But all motor-dom must be astounded that even with seventy-six notable improvements, the price is the lowest in Essex history—a price but little above the lowest-priced car on the market.

Chinese Oils Extracted By New Florida Factory

Competing with cheap Chinese hand labor in a $75,000,000 paint oil production industry, Florida horticulturalists now are operating the first mechanical tung oil plant in the world to care for the output of a 4,000 acre grove of the Chinese trees. Above is shown the mechanical press which crushes the valuable oil from the tung nuts, and (below) a section of the tung tree grove.

NEW PALTZ
New Paltz, March 12.—Edward MacLaury is spending a few days in New York city.

Mrs. Russell R. Akins entertained eight ladies at bridge on Wednesday afternoon.

Mrs. Fred Deyo entertained the Embroidery Club at her home on Tuesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. George Carroll entertained Mr. and Mrs. Grant Sheely and Mrs. M. H. Carroll at dinner on Saturday.

Miss Louise Eltinge of Greenwich, Conn., spent the week end with Mr. and Mrs. Edward MacLaury.

Word has been received from Daniel J. Gaffney, who is in California, that he had an enjoyable visit with Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Lucy at their home in Los Angeles on Washington's birthday, it also being the birthday of their twin sons. On their piazza that afternoon the thermometer registered 80 degrees. Mr. and Mrs. Lucy resided in New Paltz at one time and are the parents of the late Mrs. Calvin Freer.

Monday afternoon of last week when Harry Kniffen rounded the corner of Main and Chestnut streets, headed north, his car skidded and crowded A. P. Lefevre's truck and to avoid a head-on crash Jerome Dupuy headed for a tree by Daniel Lawrence's service station. The tree stood the crash and the truck came out with little damage.

The Study Club program for March 26 and March 12 have been interchanged, as Mrs. Lawrence H. Van Berg was here to read her paper Tuesday afternoon. At that meeting Mrs. Carrie G. Vall gave a sketch of Calaverth and Mrs. B. H. Matteson discussed plays.

The Boy Rangers met with Jay LeFevre on Tuesday at 3:30.

On Friday, March 15, the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society of the Methodist Church will meet with Mrs. Della Dingee at the Agonian Sorority House.

Miss Marguerite Linacre spent last week end with relatives in Springtown.

"Rushing" period for the three Sororities culminated on Thursday night. The "conflict" parties were held on Monday afternoon and evening. On Wednesday the three entertained their chosen at formal teas. Contrary to unwritten Sorority law there was considerable see-sawing about and changing of minds among the "rushes" this year. This is probably due to the new Intersorority rush laws, however. On Thursday afternoon "bids" for membership went out on the 4 o'clock mail. The "rushes" personally accepted at the respective houses at 6:30 that same night and were then transformed into "pledges."

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey G. Gregory entertained at cards Thursday evening.

Mrs. Perry Deyo and Helena LeFevre left last Monday for Montgomery, Alabama. From there they will go to Fort Lauderdale, Florida.

Mr. and Mrs. Louis LeFevre and Mr. and Mrs. Martin DuBois left Wednesday for a few days' visit at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Brashears at Mount Vernon.

Mrs. Hupier has returned to her home in New York city after several days' visit with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Gregory.

Mr. and Mrs. Moore of Poughkeepsie have been visiting their daughter, Mrs. Rosell E. DuBois.

Mrs. Mary F. Stahl and Miss Alice Finley have returned from a two weeks' visit at their sister's, Dr. Caroline Finley of New York city.

The New Paltz Fire Department elected as its officers for the coming year on Monday evening: Ira Zimmerman, Howard Zimmerman and Higo Freer.

Mrs. Jeremiah Schoonmaker spent the week at the home of her brother, Edwige Harp.

A new bakery and lunch room has been opened on Main street under the management of Mr. and Mrs. Larsen of Newburgh.

foot wild cat on the mountain last week.
Fred Yorks and Raymond Quick of Libertyville called in town during the past week.
H. DuBois killed his ice house during the past week.
Mr. and Mrs. G. Warren DuBois entertained their son, who is teaching in Brooklyn, over the week end.
Oscar Sutherland has purchased a car of Thomas Elliott.
Miss Laura Quick has been entertaining guests.
Miss Mary Breen spent the week end at her home in Glen Falls.
Richard (Doc) Jr. of Modena was a visitor in New Paltz on Tuesday.
Mr. and Mrs. Luther Terwilliger were in Newburgh on Saturday.
Earl Dingee of Walden spent a few days with his aunts, Mrs. Della and Mrs. Eva Dingee.
The Epworth League meeting was led by Miss Muriel Gregory at the Methodist Church Sunday night, March 10. Topic: "Paths to Peace."
Miss Laura Quick spent the week end with friends in Modena.
The Rev. J. J. Henry, district superintendent, preached the sermon in the Methodist Church Sunday morning, March 10, and held the fourth quarterly conference after the service.
Wednesday night, March 12, the union Lenten service will be in charge of the Rev. Edwin D. Miner. Subject, "My God and Father."
Mary DuBois and Harry Quick were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Miller in Poughkeepsie over the week end.
Mr. and Mrs. Howard Grimm were callers in Modena one day last week.
The New Paltz Opera House has booked the great movie "Simba" for March 21 and 22. This picture is one of the greatest animal pictures on the screen and it took over four years to make it.
Frank Van Syckle has been confined to his home by illness for a few days.

LAST NIGHT on the RADIO

Good reception Tuesday afternoon and evening again went to pieces shortly after 9 o'clock when interference, probably local, caused gasping, choking and gurgling noises in all programs.

DX fans should try for the Pacific Coast on Friday evening from 10 to 11 o'clock when KNX will broadcast a New York state program and make a special effort to reach New York state points. The wave, length of KNX, "The Voice of Hollywood," is 337 meters.

MINSTREL SHOW AT LAKE KATRINE THURSDAY

Lake Katrine, March 12.—The old fashioned dance last week was received with such enthusiasm, the committee decided to have another Wednesday evening, March 20, with Pardee and Allen furnishing the music. They also will play for dancing after the minstrel performance Thursday evening this week. Before the opening a band of 35 pieces of the American Mechanics will give a concert in front of the hall. The cast is composed of 12 men, 4 and men, with Herbert Myers as interlocutor. They have already given this performance to crowded halls at their own lodge, the Church of the Comforter and at Kifton. This is given under the auspices of the Parent-Teacher Association, Mrs. Copeland Gates is chairman of the Ways and Means Committee. A cordial invitation is extended to all.

Pep's Birthplace

Big London and a little Huntingdonshire town are both claiming to be the birthplace of Samuel Pepys. A tavern in London has dedicated a tablet stating that the famous diarist was born in a house on that site, but many in that city still side with the small town in its claims.

PAJAMAS GO ON PARADE AND PRESUME TO FLARE AND FLAUNT THEIR COLORS

New York—A woman cannot possibly mind being caught napping in any of the stunning pajamas being shown by smart shops. Whether bizarre in material or fashioned of plain fabrics offset by contrasting bindings of other details, pajamas are nothing if not gay.

The lounging pajama has established its place in the home, and in many of its newer interpretations has wide trousers, and often a deep hip yoke. They are consistent in having also a sailor collar and inconsistent in having a top which is quite as apt to be a direct contradiction to the wide trouser leg. The tuck-in blouse has been adopted to the lounging pajama, and surprise pajama tops. Of course the jacket theme has been varied for lounging purposes, it may be completed by an abbreviated jacket or by a longer and less revealing coat.

With color rampant as it unquestionably is in every phase of fashion, one naturally expects to find it at its 5620. This picture shows the well-known "windbreaker" jumper and a skirt with plait fullness in front, and a flare back. The jumper has a convertible collar that may be closed high or turned back as in the large view. Checked woolen and wool crepe are combined in this instance. The checked material being used for the skirt and for facings on the jumper. Velvet is also desirable or the skirt may be of tweed, and the jumper of suede with tweed facings. The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. An eight-year size will require, if made as illustrated, 1½ yard of 54-inch material for the blouse and 1½ yard for the skirt, and facings on collar and cuffs. If made of one material 2½ yards will be required.

A pattern of this illustration mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in coin or stamps by the Pattern Department, The Freeman, Kingston, N. Y. Be sure to state the size wanted.

Send 15c in coin or stamps to The Freeman for our up-to-date Spring and Summer 1929 Book of Fashions showing color plates, and containing 500 designs of ladies', misses' and children's patterns, a concise and comprehensive article on dressmaking, also some points for the needle

ACTIVITIES AT ALBANY AVENUE BAPTIST CHURCH

At the mid-week service Thursday evening the topic will be, "The Soldiers Who Crucified Christ." A large attendance is desired. This coming Sunday evening Dr. Dana M. Albaugh, who has seen considerable missionary experience in Central Africa, will speak at the regular service. Dr. Albaugh is a most interesting speaker and will have a message that all will enjoy. On Sunday the Bible school will observe its annual Birthday Sunday, and birthday contributions toward the building fund will be made. Some interesting and unusual exercises and the awarding of prizes will mark the occasion.

Annual Spring Dinner.

The annual spring dinner at Trinity M. E. Church will be held on Wednesday, March 20, from 5 to 8 o'clock. The following is the menu: Creamed potatoes, baked ham, candied sweet potatoes, salad, jelly, green beans, white, brown and rice bread, apple pie and ice cream, tea and coffee. Home made candy will also be on sale.

LESTER SERVICES AT TRINITY LUTHERAN CHURCH

Tonight at eight o'clock there will be English Lester services at Trinity Lutheran Church, Spring and Horse streets. This will be the fifth service on the Lester series: "The Questions of Jesus." The text is John 18, 23: "If I have spoken evil, bear witness of the evil; but if well, why smitest thou me?" Sermon theme: "The Church." 1. The church without Christ in it. 2. The Church with Christ in it." The public is invited.

On Sunday, March 17, in the morning at eleven o'clock the confirmation class of this year will be examined during the English service. There will be no sermon; the examination will take the place of the sermon. The service will be no longer than the usual Sunday service of one hour. The public is invited.

The class is as follows: Marion Albrecht, Olive Boice, Ruth Duryea, Elizabeth Kiraly, Lillian Woerner, Donald Ross, Tibor Tomso, Walter Van Demark.

On Palm Sunday this class will be confirmed at 10:30 in the morning. There will be no German service on Palm Sunday.

In Holy Week the services will be as follows: Holy Thursday, 8 p. m., English with Holy Communion; Good Friday, 10:30 a. m., German with Holy Communion; Good Friday, 2 p. m., Sunday school service in church; Good Friday, 8 p. m., English with Holy Communion. Easter, 10 a. m., German with Holy Communion; Easter, 11 a. m., English with Holy Communion.

CANTATA AT BONDSTOWN PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

One of the outstanding musical events of the spring season will be the presentation of the beautiful cantata, "The Holy City" by Gail, at the Bondstown Presbyterian Church at a four o'clock vespers service on Easter Sunday, March 21. Several of Kingston's well known singers will be heard in the lovely solo numbers, as well as in the chorus parts.

The chorus will be composed of over twenty voices, including a double male quartet. The soloists for this occasion will be Mrs. Henry F. Dunbar, soprano; Miss Harriet Spink, soprano; Miss Virginia Los Kamp, contralto; Leonard Stine, baritone. Among others assisting the choir will be Mrs. William Mills, Mrs. Ralph Glendinning, Ralph Gurney, Ralph O. Martin, Henry F. Dunbar, Clarence Rowland.

"The Holy City" is one of the best known sacred cantatas. It is celebrated for its melodic beauty and harmony, which are splendidly descriptive of the text.

The public is cordially invited to attend this musical service and will please note the change of hour to 4 o'clock, instead of the usual service at 5 o'clock.

Central Hook's Annual Banquet.

Central Hook and Ladder Company will hold its annual banquet on Thursday evening at the newly rearranged dining room of Henry Millonig at the West Shore Hotel, Railroad avenue. An Ulster county turkey dinner will be served. Covers will be laid for fifty.

Soldiers Sponsor Lecture on North

"Under the Northern Lights," a lecture embodying the experiences of Captain Donald B. MacMillan in the frozen north, will be given at the former Auditorium Theatre on Pine Grove avenue, Wednesday night, March 20, at 8 o'clock, under the auspices of the First Battalion, 154th Field Artillery.

The interesting part of the lecture is that it is illustrated by "movies" taken by an experienced member of MacMillan's crew, which enables the audience to actually make the trip from start to finish, without having to undergo the hardships which the expedition did. The lecture is given by the noted explorer himself, and contains a wealth of knowledge concerning the realms of the north.

Captain MacMillan gives facts from data accurately compiled, which makes his lecture of a very valuable nature to students. A reduction in admission price is given those attending school.

NOTICE TO CREDITORS—In pursuance of an order of Hon. GEORGE F. KAUFMAN, Surrogate of Ulster County, notice is hereby given, according to law, to all persons having claims against James T. O'Neill, late of the City of Kingston, County of Ulster, deceased, to present the same with the vouchers in support thereof, to the undersigned, William J. O'Neill, Administrator of the estate of said deceased, care C. J. Flanagan, Attorney, No. 31 Broadway, New York City, of Kingston, N. Y., on or before the 10th day of August, 1929.

305 famous
Beauty Shops say, "Give your hands

Beauty Care right in the dishpan"

RECENTLY, 305 of the finest Beauty salons in the United States reported this interesting fact—

"With all our experience,"—these experts said—"we cannot distinguish between hands that never wash dishes and hands that use Lux in the dishpan. . . . Evidently, Lux gives real beauty care."

These experts observe thousands of hands and they know! In their own words, Lux means "beauty care" right in your own dishpan! Isn't this a startling idea? Yet women instinctively know it is true. Washing their fine things in the gorgeously sparkling Lux suds, women themselves noticed how smooth and white their hands looked afterward. Now they are washing dishes with Lux to give their hands the same gentle beauty care—three times a day!

The secret is simple . . . Lux is so utterly pure, so delicately refined by the special process used in its making, that it protects the precious beauty oils—the youth oils—of the skin. Many soaps dry up these oils, leave the skin parched—red and drawn looking.

Best of all, this beauty care costs almost nothing. Lux for all your dishes costs less than 1¢ a day!

Such Inexpensive Beauty Care—Lux in the dishpan is the wisest, most inexpensive beauty care known! Give gentle, soothing care to your hands—with no extra time, no trouble—and costs less than 1¢ a day.

most brilliant within the confines of the home. The unexpected happens so frequently that one hesitates in calling the crepe satin pajama unexpected. It is often ornamented and animated with color or a multitude of them, but it is extremely smart when combined with white. Printed crepes and chiffons are attractively introduced not only for pajamas but for other bits of lingerie. Lace has quite naturally returned to feminize the negligee which has been for some time inclined to tailored lines. Designers have proven conclusively that because a lounging robe garment is bifurcated it need not be masculine. Nothing more frivolous or feminine than many of the pajamas shown could be possible. The stamp act was passed by the British parliament on January 10, 1766. Under this law, the Colonists were compelled to place stamps on all commercial and legal documents. It was repealed in 1766, however, when the Colonists protested.

Here is a cleaner for the bathtub's dirty ring

Does a dirty ring form around your bathtub? Clean it away! Use Melo, the modern household cleaner. Melo not only cleans away the dirty ring, but prevents it also! And provides a sudsy, soft-water bath.

Melo cleans because it softens hard city water. And before you can clean anything you need soft water. Melo prevents "ring around the dishpan" too. Used in the washbowl it makes clothes white and thoroughly clean. Your grocer has it.

Old Bull's Wrong

The idea that a man falling through the air from a great height loses consciousness before he lands has been proved to be a fallacy. It has been found that persons falling maintain full control of their faculties until they come into contact with some solid object.

CREEK LOCKS.

Creek Locks, March 13.—Mrs. Andrew Hoffman received a letter from her sister in California by the air mail which arrived here in three days.

Mrs. Jacob Weimer spent a delightful afternoon at the "Anchor" last Wednesday.

Miss Beatrice Freer of Maple Hill spent Wednesday with her mother, Ernest Hochstadter, had a very good season last year in home-making. His honey is a beautiful clear golden color and is delicious.

The Central Hudson Gas & Electric men were through here this week cutting all of the overhanging branches as they were interfering with the electric wires.

Monday night there was considerable trouble with the lighting service due to the branches falling on the wires. The young men in charge are very courteous and obliging.

Mrs. Ella Hahn entertained a friend from New York over the week end.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Deshon and Mrs. P. Walsh were Kingston visitors on Thursday.

Mrs. Calvin Mowle is having electricity installed at her residence. Frank Sass of Kingston is the contractor.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Finkbeiner and little daughters, June and Marion, of Poughkeepsie spent Monday afternoon with her sister, Mrs. George Sagar.

Among the most treasured possessions of the Sagar family is an old Holland Dutch Bible of the year 1699. The first birth recorded is that of Abram Van Wageningen, an ancestor of Mrs. Alonzo Sagar, who came to America some years later bringing the Bible with his old maps with him. When the caravan that brought him and his family broke down in this beautiful valley he decided to make his home here and called it Wagendell, which translated from the Dutch means dale or valley, which was applied to Creek Locks many years later. The old stone house which he built in 1726 is in a fair state of preservation on what is now the Snyder property. Mrs. Sagar is naturally very proud of her old Bible and of some other old relics of bygone days.

Mrs. William Engleman also treasures an old German Bible nearing the century mark.

Mrs. Sigmund Shulhof, who is spending the winter in New York, spent a few days here recently.

The Misses Katherine and Anne O'Connor of Bloomington Terrace called on their aunt, Mrs. Emma Reilly, on Sunday afternoon.

The Misses Theresa and Stella Brophy of Kingston spent Saturday and Sunday afternoon at their home here.

Mrs. Richard Sagar is busy taking driving lessons.

Edwin LeFevre is still on the job cutting and hauling firewood.

Mrs. Andrew Hoffman and Mrs. Oscar Hahn spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Carl Leim.

Mr. and Mrs. Strong and daughter, Miss Myrtle, returned to their home in New York city after spending some time with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Kortechni. Mrs. Strong has been with them since February 12.

February Price For League Milk

New York, March 13.—Return to members of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., for February milk will be on the basis of a net pool price of $2.97 per 100 pounds for 3.5 milk at the 201-210 mile zone, says an announcement from League headquarters today.

This return, it was said, is the highest February price members have received for their milk since the organization was established. It is 17 cents per 100 pounds above the price for February 1922 and more than 51½ cents above the average for February during the period from 1921 to 1923.

League officials pointed out that this steadily increasing return to dairymen should be an incentive to them to act immediately to increase their production to supply the metropolitan market next fall. The higher return was explained as due to increased efficiency in the operation of the league, and in part a result of its protection of the market from outside milk, which may enter if farmers do not develop greater production for next fall.

APPENDICITIS: TRY HORSE SHOE CURE.

St. Petersburg, Fla. (P.)—Whether or not there is any connection, President H. L. Ermantinger, of the National Horseshoe Pitching association, says no active member of the organization within 10 years has suffered from or been operated upon for appendicitis.

"Horseshoe pitching indulged in by men of middle age and past is a form of mild exercise that has proven most beneficial," Mr. Ermantinger declares. "It is a game played by hundreds and here in St. Petersburg there is a club of 175 players who have at no time complained of such an ailment as appendicitis."

Financial and Commercial
New York, March 13 (AP).—With relatively low call money rates temporarily allaying uneasiness over the credit situation, the stock market moved forward today in response to an unusually large quota of favorable trade and business news. Nearly all groups in the industrial division participated in the up-swing, which ran from 2 to nearly 10 points in many issues, with the coppers, public utilities, steels and oils giving the best demonstrations of group strength.
Call money renewed at 7 per cent but that figure was shaded in the outside market, where loans were reported as low as 6 1/2%.
While a "money squeeze" late this week or early next week is still regarded as a possibility because of the heavy mid-month shifting of funds, Wall Street derived considerable encouragement from reports that gold shipments, totaling about $15,000,000, were on their way here from Argentina and Germany, the exchanges of which have fallen below the "gold import" points. Wall Street figures that each dollar in gold provides the basis for $10 in credit.
Another series of excellent 1925 earnings reports, led by that of the American Sugar Refining Co., helped to generate a bullish enthusiasm. Weekly steel trade reviews emphasized the continued heavy demand for steel products. Iron Age reported that "with current output close to the practical capacity of the steel furnaces March is expected to set new records for both monthly and average daily production."
Directors of the Michigan Central Railroad, more than 85 per cent of the stock of which is owned by the New York Central, declared a 100 per cent dividend as against a previous rate of 40 per cent.

3 Killed, 9 Hurt in Two Explosions
St. Joseph, Mo., March 13 (AP).—Three persons were killed and nine others, mostly children, were injured in two mysterious explosions which wrecked two buildings here this morning.
The first blast demolished a two-story brick building. The second, two hours later, wrecked a building two blocks away, while a large crowd, attracted by the earlier blast, was milling about the street.
Both of the wrecked buildings housed a grocery store, with apartments above.
Police expressed the blasts were set off by bombers. Investigation also was being made to determine if escaping gas might have been responsible for the blasts.
The dead:
Mrs. Mary Lew, 65; Charles Donald Nolan, 10; Dorothy Glogner, 9; Leo Urbanski, 10. Mrs. Lew, stated that there was no gas connection in the second building destroyed. He expressed the belief that it had been blown up by a bomb. While standing at the rear of the structure, he said, he saw a man run from a rear door, climb into an automobile, and speed from the scene.

Nobile Resigns From Army
London, March 13 (AP).—The Exchange Telegraph Company this morning said it had been officially announced at Rome that General Umberto Nobile, commander of the ill-fated Italia expedition, had resigned his rank and office. The resignation was accepted.

About the Folks
Mrs. Abram Lowe, Sr., of Kingston, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Charles Burton of Slightsburgh.
Robert Purcell, who has been seriously ill of pneumonia, is convalescing at his home on Jansen avenue, under the care of Dr. F. Sibley.
Miss Elizabeth Van Bramer of Slightsburgh, has been called to the bedside of her brother, Edward McCormack, who is very ill at his home in Brooklyn.
Mrs. W. B. Terwilliger, who has been spending some time visiting friends in Washington, has returned home. While in Washington Mrs. Terwilliger attended the inaugural ceremonies.

Abyssinian Jews Only Jewish Mountaineers
The only Jewish mountaineers in the world are said to live in Abyssinia. These tribesmen, Falashas as they call themselves, inhabit the highlands of what was once part of the ancient kingdom of Shih, the north of the Negus country.
The Falashas have a typical Jewish appearance, but lack most of the conventional habits and attributes of that race. Neither they nor their ancestors have ever engaged in trade. They are trappers and rarely mingle with the Abyssinians in the towns and villages of the lowland.
They adhere to the Biblical traditions of the ancestors, practice the usual rites and perform a rude imitation of the passover ceremonies. They have neither temples nor rabbis.
In the fastnesses of their mountains they preserve in a quiet seclusion a copy of the pentateuch, which their chiefs allege came down to them direct from King Solomon through the Queen of Sheba.
During the coronation of Ras Tafari as emperor of Abyssinia, representatives of the Falasha tribes presented to the new monarch a copy of the manuscripts which King Solomon sent the Queen of Sheba before they were married. These are said to contain the earliest known love letters from a monarch to his royal consort.

POULTRY
GREEN FEED FOR GOSLINGS HELPS
Tender Grass Should Fill Principal Part of Ration.
An important item in the care of young goslings is to keep them warm and quiet for the first few days and an equally important item in their feeding is to start them out on green feed, preferably tender grass.
For about two days after hatching goslings show little inclination to do anything but keep warm and quiet. They may come from under the hen and nibble at whatever they may see and it is edible. They are most partial to grass and tender plants, but will take a little mash if it is offered and will dabble their bills in the water.
After that the gosling begins to take more interest in affairs and will feed industriously for short periods, always preferring short, tender grass and weeds for its diet, with mash and other substantial feed that may be offered in small amounts. A common mistake is to feed green food as an accessory to grain feed when it should form the principal part of the ration with mash and grain as an accessory to the green stuff.
Goslings may be brooded with hens or in small colony brooders or with geese. In the latter case they will get along very well if left to the old birds, the keeper supplying a soft feed of grain once or twice a day as the appetites of the goslings may dictate. This is true only when the range is ample and furnishes good grazing. The geese which are mated with one gander will usually raise their broods in one group, the gander being watchful over his whole family.
When the goslings are brooded by hens or brooders they require close attention while small. They should be confined for the first few days in pens which will keep them near the hen or brooder. These pens can be made of narrow wire netting or boards and placed on sod. When the goslings clean off the grass they should be moved.

Egg-Eating Habit Among Hens Hard to Control
The egg-eating habit is usually caused by the hens getting hold of a soft-shelled egg that happens to be dropped on the ground somewhere in plain sight. They get to rolling it about, finally breaking it, and the trouble has started. The next thing is to get it stopped. Sometimes it may be stopped by making a slight break in the side of an egg, running a part of the white and then inserting a good dose of cayenne pepper, closing the hole with adhesive tape or court-plaster. Drop this out among the guinea fow and see what they do with it and how it affects them. Another way is to heat an egg to the boiling point, crack slightly and place out for them.
In case neither of these work, a plan that will be effective is to put a false bottom of burlap in your nest box just a few inches from the real bottom, tacking it around the sides, then cut a cross in the center of the burlap large enough for the eggs to drop through. They will go down out of sight and trouble. It may be that at the start of this dirty work you may be able to locate one leader, and taking her out to herself the trouble in the flock will be ended.

Poultry Facts
Keep hens ridged of worms.
The air in a chicken house should be continually moving at a fairly slow rate.
The first three weeks of the life of a chick is recognized as one of essential importance.
Baby chicks will digest a crop full of mash in from two to two and a half hours and are then ready for another feed.
The breeding turkey should receive a good laying mash along with scratch grain.
The turkeys should not be fed straight alfalfa meal or alfalfa steam meal because it is too bulky to be handled by their digestive systems.
It is generally recognized by poultry disease specialists that chickens have remarkable resistance against most diseases, and the class of troubles commonly spoken of as colds and roup is no exception to this statement.
The first symptoms of colds among a flock are sneezing and loss of appetite and activity by those infected.
Liver troubles in hens are difficult to treat, as they are seldom discovered until the bird becomes sick and dies suddenly.
Hens don't need and can't eat such feeds as corn-cobs and shucks. Save the corn-cob meal for the cows. Give the hens whole corn, or preferably cracked corn. They'll lay more eggs.

Spanish Term
In southwestern United States the Spanish term "hacienda" is used for a product of establishment in the country for farming or stock raising. It is a landed estate, one especially on which the owner resides.
Another Indication of Spring.
James Foundas, who has been a familiar figure for a number of years with his peasant and chestnut wagon at the corner of Wall and John streets, during the spring and summer months was seen this morning getting his wagon stand in shape preparatory to resuming business in a day or two. His first appearance in March each year after spending over three months in trips South is an indication that Spring has come.
D. S. C. Presented to Baker.
Washington, March 13 (AP).—Newton D. Baker, secretary of war during the World War, came to Washington today to receive the distinguished service medal from Secretary Good. While in office Baker disapproved the recommendations of a board that he be awarded the medal.
Anabelle's Cello Note.
Tuesday afternoon the city ambulance removed Mrs. Anna Quigley from 221 Catherine street to the Benedictine Hospital, and Ellsworth Rhodes from 759 Broadway to the Kingston Hospital.

The regular monthly meeting of the Parent-Teacher Association of No. 7 school was held Tuesday afternoon at 3:45. A short business meeting was held at which time it was voted to hold a food sale in the near future. Mrs. Arthur Frolich was appointed chairman. Other plans for raising money were also discussed. During the meeting Miss Lillian Herdman gave a most interesting talk on the work carried on at the Y. W. C. A. for children of school age.

SOFT DRINK MILLIONAIRE DIES AFTER LONG ILLNESS
Atlanta, Ga., March 13 (AP).—Atlanta today mourned Asa G. Candler, former drug clerk in a country pharmacy whose faith in a soft drink formula brought him millions of dollars in the manufacture of Coca Cola. The 73-year-old capitalist, civil leader and philanthropist died last yesterday at Wesley Memorial Hospital after an illness of more than two years.
The story of the romance of American business. As the proprietor of an Atlanta drug store, more than forty years ago, he purchased the formula for Coca Cola for a reported price of $500, and in 1919 sold his interest in the immense Coca Cola Manufacturing Company for $25,000,000.
THE JOINTERS.

Assembly Kills Enforcement Bill
Albany, March 13 (AP).—The assembly today killed the Jenks state prohibition enforcement bill.
First the House refused to accept the codes committee report of last night amending the enforcement bill so as to apply only to beverages containing more than six per cent alcohol and then immediately killed the measure by voting to recommit it.
Heeding the exhortation of Majority Leader Russell G. Dunsmore not to accept the committee report, all but eight of the Republicans voted against the 6 per cent report, leaving the bill in its original form, applying to beverages containing more than one-half of one per cent, in accordance with the Volstead Act. The vote was 67 ayes and 78 noes.
Peter J. Hamill, New York Democrat, then immediately moved to recommit. On this vote, six Republicans who had voted with the majority on the previous motion, switched and were recorded with the Democrats. The vote sending the bill to committee was 74 to 72.

Lee Bible Hopes To Break Record

Snow Maroons Mountain Towns

Daytona Beach, Fla., March 12.—Lee Bible, carefree Jack of all trades, today has stepped out of the gray overalls of a garage owner-mechanic into the ranks of the world's fastest racing car drivers.

The 42-year-old mechanic was to give the "golden opportunity of a life time," to use his own words, as the driver of the Triplex, powerful racing car of J. J. White of Philadelphia and he expected today to attempt to wrest from Major M. D. Segrave of England the title of speed king of the automobile world.

But not without a struggle from Major Segrave. He, too, was expected to try to better his own mark, or that which Bible believed he could set. If ideal beach and weather conditions permitted, Segrave hoped to speed up his Golden Arrow to 240 miles an hour in a two-way test. He drove the machine Monday to an official record of more than 231 miles an hour.

Overnight, however, Bible had climbed into the limelight of publicity, an obscure father of two children, who will "shoot the bolt" in an effort to acquire fame and bring back to America the speed title.

Born on a farm near the village of Midway, Tenn., Bible became a railroad switchman and fireman at Knoxville, Tenn. He has since worked as a telephone lineman, automobile factory mechanic, lockwasher, worker, taxi driver and mediocre automobile racer. He has driven in county fair racing events in Arkansas, Indiana, Michigan, Kansas and other states.

If he succeeds today he will be employed for a year by White to take the Triplex on an exhibition tour at fairs and other racing meets. Then in 1930 they will enter a car in the Indianapolis speedway classic, Bible said.

Rosedale Home Service Class.

The regular Home Service class of Rosedale will be held Thursday afternoon, March 14, at 2:30 o'clock in the office of the Central Hudson Gas and Electric Corporation. Miss Plank will discuss the several different types of dessert, the topic being "What Shall I Have for Dessert?" The ladies are invited to attend this meeting.

Food Sale at St. Paul Church.

The Ladies' Aid Society of St. Paul Lutheran Church will hold a food sale at the store of Herman La Tour, 355 Broadway, on Saturday afternoon. Those who will contribute toward this sale are asked to phone to 2573 or 2643.

Denver, March 12 (AP).—Small towns and villages in the Rocky Mountain region were marooned today by snow that covered highways to a depth of three feet in places following a two-day storm.

The storm area extended northward to the Canadian border, spreading a white blanket over Montana, Wyoming and Colorado. It was estimated that it would take at least two days to clear the roads.

With warmer weather anticipated, it was feared the melting snow would again send streams in the vicinity of Greysville, Wyo., out of their banks and cause further damage. There was a flood in that section Sunday.

From 15 to 24 inches of snow fell in most of Wyoming, where the storm spent its fury; twelve inches was reported in the vicinity of Jasper, in Colorado the snowfall was generally except in the San Luis Valley in the southwestern part of the state. Nine inches fell at Denver.

BRIDGE ENGINEER

AT FIRST DUTCH CHURCH

Walter H. Marden is to conduct the prayer meeting at the First Dutch Church Thursday evening. Dr. Boere expects to be out of town for the evening. Mr. Marden has been spending several months in Kingston with the highway department, being a state bridge engineer, whose work takes him wherever floods work havoc with bridges. Being deeply interested in the church, a member of a strong Albany church, his presence has been noted in different churches in this city at the mid-week services this winter, and his short, original comments on the church and religious conditions have been most helpful. The meeting is on Thursday at 7:30.

A KANSAS CHICKEN

DIG UP POT OF GOLD.

Sharon Springs, Kas. (AP).—Since his chickens scratched up $2,710 from bare earth in three days, Edward Morin is convinced his flock of Leghorns is really profitable.

Four years ago police wouldn't believe Hoken Olsen's story that his wife had buried all his money. When the Olsens moved out Mr. and Mrs. Morin moved in. Both the Olsens have died since the money was buried, and Morin divided the buried money with Mrs. Olsen's son.

RONDOUT PRESBYTERIAN

CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

The ladies of the Rondout Presbyterian Church will meet in the church parlors Thursday afternoon to work on bawdages and sew comfort covers. The church family supper will be held in the evening at 6 o'clock. It will be in charge of Mrs. Charles Terwiler and Miss Sarah Huber, who head the committee. Study classes will follow the supper.

Enlisting Here for Army.

Sergeant Daniel J. McLinden, in charge of U.S. Army recruiting station at the Post Office building, Kingston, announces that he has just been authorized to make a limited number of enlistments for the following assignments: Coast Artillery Corps, Infantry, Engineers and Medical Department, Hawaiian Islands and for the Coast Artillery and Infantry, Philippine Islands. The recruit has a chance to visit Porto Rico, Panama Canal Zone and San Francisco, California.

Flashes of Life Sketched in Brief

By The Associated Press.

Stockholm—One of royalty's latest is to be a bride if rumor be true. Princess Ingrid of Sweden, 19, is reported affianced to Crown Prince Frederick of Denmark, 39.

New York—Leonard Kip Rhineland is now paying his wife more than $400 a month. Her attorney so announced in revealing that a separation suit had been postponed. The amount has been increased $100.

Bologna, Italy—Pius, Victor Emmanuel and Benito Cavazza are the latest arrivals in town. They are the triplets of Mariano Cavazza, railroad employe, who is enthusiastic about the solution of the Roman question.

New York—Gene Tunney is only two pounds above the weight he carried to the floor with the Chicago long count. The information comes from returning tourists who met him on a Mediterranean cruise. They found him very affable. He patronized the firm constantly.

Chicago—Harry Meir, Jr., son of the owner of the Hotel Morrison, makes $15 a week as an assistant banquet manager, but has an airplane and an automobile. It has been testified. Mrs. Martha Grief Meir makes $125 a week in vanderbilt, and is suing for alimony. Evidence was given that the airplane and auto were gifts from mother. The court reserved decision.

Hackensack, N. J.—Herbert Hoover, Jr., has been in town inspecting the Fokker airplane plant for the western air express, by which he is employed. He made a flight.

New York—Miner's Bowery Theatre, 115 years old, is to reopen for old-time melodrama. The first offering will be "Under the Gaslight."

Wilmington, Del.—Four men who held up and robbed workmen of pay envelopes are to receive 40 lashes each at the whipping post in addition to prison terms.

Marked Improvement In This Local Lady's Health

Kidneys Disorders, Backache, Constipation and Nervousness All Relieved By Nu-Erb She Says.

"For some time past, I have been in poor health because of kidney troubles and nervous disorders," said Miss Lena Berger, 110 Tremper avenue, Kingston, N. Y., who is employed locally by the Hercules Powder Company.

"I was troubled with a continual aching pain across my back and my nerves were in such a disordered, weakened condition that I was irritable, restless and could not sleep at night. I had a very poor appetite and was troubled much because of constipation.

"I have only been using the Nu-Erb a short time, but it has given me splendid relief from each one of these troubles. The pains in my back are now scarcely noticeable. My nerves are much stronger. I now sleep soundly at night and get up in the mornings feeling refreshed and ready for my day's work. Nu-Erb has also relieved the constipation and strengthened my system in every respect."

Nu-Erb is a splendid system cleanser and health builder. The ideal natural tonic. It cleanses the system of poisonous waste matter, strengthens and regulates the stomach, kidneys, liver and bowels, quiets the nerves and promotes sound refreshing sleep. If you suffer in any way you owe it to yourself to investigate this herbal medicine today.

Places Free From Diphtheria

Albany, N. Y., March 13. (AP).—Twenty-eight cities and 22 upstate counties in New York state went through 1928 without a single death from diphtheria, according to a report just issued by the State Health Department.

The report, which covered the entire state, exclusive of New York city, stated that a new low record for diphtheria had been established, 2,598 cases being reported as compared with 3,914 cases during 1927, and an average of 4,971 cases during the previous five years.

The number of deaths from diphtheria was the smallest in up-state history, 221 being reported, compared with 264 in 1927, and a five-year average of 335. The rate was 52 cases and 3.9 deaths for each 100,000 population. The report continued:

"With the exception of Troy and Schenectady, everyone of the cities with a population of 50,000 or over had a lower death rate in 1928 than in 1927. Of the cities in the 25,000 to 50,000 population group the only ones to have increases were Auburn, Elmira and Mount Vernon."

Cortland, Dunkirk, Geneva, Gloversville, Johnstown, Newburgh, Oneida, Sherill and Tonawanda reported NO cases of diphtheria and NO deaths from that cause during the year. The same report was made by Cortland, Hamilton, Schoharie and Schuyler counties.

The 28 cities which passed through the year without a death from diphtheria were Batavia, Beacon, Canandaigua, Corning, Cortland, Dunkirk, Geneva, Glens Falls, Gloversville, Hornell, Hudson, Jamestown, Johnstown, Kingston, Little Falls, Long Beach, Newburgh, Norwich, Olean, Oneida, Plattsburg,
